DMK files impleadment plea in SC on freebies

The DMK in Tamil Nadu has filed an application before the Supreme Court seeking to implead itself in the case against freebies. As per the impleadment petition, the party wants the court to consider the issues of Centre's tax holidays offered to foreign companies, waiver of bad loans of influential industrialists and granting crucial contracts to favoured conglomerates, while deciding the case | P7

INDIA NOW HAS UNESCORTED ACCESS TO THE PENTAGON

The Pentagon, headquarters of the US Department of Defence, is considered one of the most difficult places to get access

TRUST FACTOR MAJOR REASON FOR ACCESS

Speaking at a reception hosted by India's Ambassador Taranjit Singh Sandhu at India House to celebrate 75th Independence Day, US Air Force Secretary Frank Kendall said, "As of today, the Indian defence attaché team has unescorted access in the Pentagon, which is commencement with our close relationship with India's status as a major defence partner."

IT'S REALLY A BIG DEAL, SAYS US AF SECY

- Ordinary American citizens can't access to the building without high-level security clearances. According to Kendall, he himself doesn't have unescorted access to the Pentagon
- Kendall said US conducts joint exercises with India more than other country because of the evolving relationship

Shivamogga stabbing: Main accused shot in leg

Gandhi Bazaar in Shivamogga wears a deserted look on Tuesday | SHIMOGA NANDAN

MARX TEJASWI @ Shivamogga

THE Shivamogga police on Tuesday arrested two more persons, including the main accused, in the case related to the stabbing of a youth in the city during tension over putting up flexes of V D Savarkar and Tipu Sultan on Monday. The total number of arrests made in the case have now climbed to four.

The main accused was shot in the leg after he allegedly tried to attack the police who went to arrest him. Police said Zabiulla alias Charbi (29), the main accused allegedly stabbed a cloth shop worker Prem Singh (20) at Gandhi Bazaar on Monday. Zabiulla tried to attack the police with a knife when they went to nab him near NT Road in the wee hours of Tuesday.

PSI Manjunath Kuri shot Zabiullah in the leg and took him to McGann Hospital for treatment.

The police on Tuesday had arrested Tanveer (22), a resident of RML Nagar.

On Monday, the cops arrested Nadeem (25) and Abdul Rehman (25) within a few hours of the incident.

Home Minister Araga Jnanendra visited the city and took stock of the situation. ADGP (Law and Order) Alok Kumar arrived in the city on Monday night and intensified preventive measures. The taluk administration has enforced Section 144 of the Indian Penal Code till 10 pm on August 18.

CM defends Madhu Swamy on audio leak

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Tuesday defended Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister JC Madhu Swamy, whose comments landed the BJP government in a major embarrassment.

Madhu Swamy came under fire from his cabinet colleagues, who asked him to resign after he had expressed displeasure over the government's functioning. While speaking to a social worker over phone, the minister had stated that they were somehow "managing the government". The audio leak put the government in a tight spot. Bommai, however, said the minister had made the comment in a different context, and there is no need for any misunderstanding.

The minister had made the statement three months ago, while referring to a particular subject in the Cooperative department, he said. "I have spoken to the minister and there is no need for any misunderstanding. Everything is fine in the government and there is no problem," the CM said.

Madhu Swamy admitted that he had spoken to the social worker over phone, and made the statement in response to a provocation by that person, but was not sure if the audio clip that was leaked was edited.

HC FOR SWEEPING REFORMS IN IOA

The Delhi High Court on Tuesday while bringing in sweeping reforms placed Indian Olympic Association in the hands of the Committee of Administrators. State Olympic Associations, an integral part of the IOA, have been stripped of their voting rights. Only Olympic discipline National Sports Federations will have voting rights. Now on, the sports code "must be made applicable to the IOA and to every constituent NSFs and to every state and district level association".

FIFA shows red card to AIFF, U-17 World Cup off for now

INDRANEEL DAS @ Chennai

IN A major setback to India, the international football federation (FIFA) banned All India Football Federation (AIFF) and has taken away the rights to host the FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup 2022 in October. India was gearing up to host the World Cup amidst much fanfare and brouhaha. There were indications, but with less than two months remaining for the event this decision came as a bombshell.

FIFA was not amused when the Supreme Court-appointed Committee of Administrators gave voting rights to 36 eminent sportspersons despite it having reservations. After the August 3 SC order, where the court gave permission to CoA to go ahead with the elections under the new provisions, the FIFA had warned AIFF.

The sports ministry scurried to court seeking a review, held numerous meetings with AIFF state units, CoA and other officials. On Friday and Monday too ministry had meetings with FIFA to break the deadlock. The CoA agreed to hold the elections with the 36 state units and not with 36 eminent players. The SC will hear the case on Wednesday.

But FIFA was piqued and later in a letter to the AIFF said the indefinite suspension will be lifted only when the order to set up CoA, installed by the SC, has been repealed. "The suspension will be lifted once an order to set up a committee of administrators to assume the powers of the AIFF Executive Committee has been repealed and the AIFF administration regains full control of the AIFF's daily affairs," the FIFA said. The Court put in place the CoA because the AIFF was in violation of the Sports Code.

If the suspension is not revoked, India will lose the right to host the World Cup. "The suspension means that the FIFA U-17 Women's World Cup 2022, scheduled to take place in India cannot currently be held in India as planned," FIFA said. However, FIFA has given some hope when it said "FIFA is in constant constructive contact with the Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports in India and is hopeful that a positive outcome to the case may still be achieved."

Tourists attacked by right wing activists

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Madikeri

TWO tourists were attacked allegedly by a group of right wing activists in Kodagu near Mandalpatti in Madikeri on Tuesday afternoon. The victims, Saman Sajid and Shamseer, were part of a group of five, with others being Nanda Kishan and two girls. The youngsters had sought permission from home and were on a vacation in the district. While they were returning from the tourist spot to their car parked in Mandalpatti, they were stopped by a group of five youngsters. The five took objection to the presence of a Hindu girl with two Muslim boys. More activists joined and they allegedly assaulted Saman and Shamseer. The activists also shared the pictures of the two girls on social media.

With this app, shepherds can sell sheep directly to buyers

G SUBHASH CHANDRA
@ Davanagere/Chitradurga

AIMED at bringing transparency in sheep and goat trading and getting rid of middlemen, NCDEX e-Markets Ltd has introduced an online application for trading livestock for the first time in the country.

NeML has tied up with the Karnataka Sheep and Wool Development Corporation Ltd for trading sheep and goats from farm producers' cooperatives, sheep and wool societies and individual farmers with buyers spread all across the country.

The e-platform has been launched on a pilot basis in Chitradurga, Davanagere, Tumakuru, Koppal, Ballari, Shivamogga, Haveri, Belagavi, Dharwad and Gadad districts.

Farmers have been told to file details of the number of sheep, breed, age, locality and live weight. A maximum of 30 photos per animal can be uploaded along with Aadhaar and Pan card details, bank account number, gender of the sheep, and number of offspring in case of females and other details. Both the buyer and farmer can upload the details so that prices of animals can be fixed by farmers and if the deal is through, the trading can be done.

Deva Naik, deputy manager, NeML, told TNIE that around 12 lakh shepherd families, rearing around 1.71 lakh sheep and goats, will benefit from the programme. Based on the success of the pilot, it will be extended to the entire country.

Remission granted in Bilkis case not in sync with Shah fiat

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Gujarat government's decision to release 11 convicts serving time for the rape and murder of Bilkis Bano during the 2002 riots in the state, flies in the face of the Union home ministry's explicit directive that "special remission is NOT to be granted" to those facing "sentence of life imprisonment" and "rape".

The 11, serving life term for raping Bilkis Bano before murdering her and her entire family, were allowed to walk free from the Godhra sub-jail on August 15 after a state government committee approved their application for remission of the sentence.

A home ministry notification issued on June 10, 2022 said "as part of the celebrations (Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav), it is proposed to give special remission to certain categories of prisoners and release them in three phases – 15th August 2022, 26th January 2023 and again on 15th August 2023."

While eight different categories of convicts qualify for remission, "special remission is NOT to be granted" to a longer list of 12 categories of convicts.

The no-go list includes death row convicts or cases where death has been commuted to life, those sentenced for life, convicts serving time for acts of terror, dowry death, counterfeiting currency, rape, human trafficking, sexually abusing children, money laundering, corruption etc.

HC ruling on wards, quota, will violate SC order: SEC

Claims that Rs 3cr already spent on voters' list, new list being done

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE State Election Commission (SEC) contended before the Karnataka High Court that the Supreme Court is monitoring the Bruhat Bangalore Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) election schedule, and any interim order by the high court on reservation notification — regarding petitions challenging the delimitation of 243 wards — will violate the Supreme Court order.

Senior advocate KN Phaneendra, representing SEC, made a submission before Justice Hemant Chandangoudar, who was hearing a batch of petitions filed by SD Gururaj and others, challenging the delimitation notification dated July 14, 2022, issued by the Urban Development Department.

Phaneendra submitted that elections to BBMP are imminent, since the Council term expired on September 14, 2020. The SEC is preparing the voters' list under a very tight schedule to comply with Supreme Court directions, he argued, pointing out that the SEC had spent Rs 3 crore to prepare the voters' list, which was rendered useless because of the formation of 243 wards.

The Supreme Court had directed that necessary notifications be issued regarding delimitation of wards, or for determining reservation, not later than eight weeks. According to the order, the reservation notification had to be issued within a week after delimitation notification was issued. If there is any delay, aggrieved persons can approach the Supreme Court which will hear the matter on August 26.

Referring to this, Phaneendra argued that delimitation is proper and even if any illegalities are found, the court can issue guidelines to be followed by the state government for the next election.

He submitted that delimitation of wards has been done strictly as per Section7(1)(a) and (b) of the BBMP Act, and no ward boundary is spread across two assembly constituencies.

He said that preparation of the voters' list has commenced and work orders issued, and if there is interference with delimitation, the entire exercise will become useless.

The state government also filed objections defending the delimitation notification. The hearing will continue on Wednesday.

GRANITE BENCHES MAY ADORN LALBAGH SOON

MOHAMMED YACOOB @Bengaluru

BENCHES in Lalbagh that are broken will be replaced by granite seats at a cost of Rs 2 crore soon. The broken benches caught the attention of MLA Uday Garudachar, who raised the issue with Horticulture Minister Munirathna Naidu.

Garudachar, under whose Assembly segment Lalbagh falls, had noticed the old and dilapidated benches made out of cast iron.

He requested Rs 2 crore, but Naidu suggested seeking Rs 5 crore for the overall development of the historic park. "On August 5, Munirathna and I boarded an electric buggy along with Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and went on a ride around the park. I showed Munirathna the broken benches. After it was pitched with the chief minister and Rs 5 crore was sought, he agreed to release Rs 2 crore. The grant may come anytime and stone benches will be in place by the Republic Day Flower Show," he said.

Munirathna too confirmed that new granite benches will come up at Lalbagh soon.

A senior official from Lalbagh, however, said stone benches could trigger a controversy and earn the wrath of green warriors. "Old benches made of cast iron are good, and many visitors have sentiments attached to them. Instead of granite benches, the old benches should be altered and repaired. All these suggestions will come up before the Lalbagh expert committee before any decision is taken," the official said.

After the successful Independence Day Flower Show, the authorities were busy cleaning the park and moving the statues and busts of Dr Rajkumar and Puneeth Rajkumar that were sourced from different parts of state.

GOVT ISSUES FINAL WARD NOTIFICATION

ENS @ Bengaluru

A week after its draft notification, the State government on Tuesday issued the final notification, recognising reservation to 243 wards. With this step, the government is said to have moved another step in holding the BBMP elections.

Former Opposition leader in the BBMP Council Abdul Wajid says the Urban Development Department received 6,000 objections on reservation of ward based on category, however, the government has gone ahead with its unscientific methods, which is nothing but "vendetta politics".

"Senior leader like Ramalinga Reddy has said that if there is injustice, the only option is to fight it out legally," said Wajid, indicating that Congress and other leaders may drag the matter to court, seeking realignment of reservation. Going by the notification, experienced leaders like former mayors Gautham Kumar Jain (Jogupalya), Manjunath Reddy (Madivala), G Padmavathi (Prakash Nagar), Katte Satyanarayana (Basavangudi), Abdul Wajid (Manorayanpalaya), M Shivaraj, Rizwan Nawab (Gurappana Palya) cannot contest from their wards as they are either reserved for women, Backward Class or SC/ST.

Picking up the Tricolour after I-Day

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A flag collection initiative has been extended by various organisations in Bengaluru, post Independence Day, to prevent littering of flags across the city. Flags were hoisted for the 'Har Ghar Tiranga' campaign across the country, after Independence. Amit Amarnath, founder, Youth for Parivarthan, said the primary problem is a lack of basic civic sense in people. "On one day, flags are hoisted and revered, but the next day, they are dumped on the roads," he said. Creating awareness on proper disposal of flags properly, post the 'Har Ghar Tiranga' campaign, he added that the Tricolour is part of the national identity and must be given respect on all days.

The flag collection drive will continue for a week and flags can be deposited at collection points in Banashankari, JP Nagar, Vijayanagar, Jayanagar 9th and 4th block, and Uttarahalli. The organisation said it received many calls, a few hours after launching the campaign on the first day itself.

Indian Oil also started a collection drive, where people could dispose of unwanted flags at the nearest Indian Oil petrol pumps. However, many people were sent back from the petrol pump, stating that the initiative was only taking place in Mumbai and not Bengaluru, creating confusion among the citizens. He said that citizens should be informed by the government post Independence Day. They should have also been notified in advance on how to properly dispose of them. Being Social is collaborating with Nexus Koramangala for the flag collection initiative. Praveen Shukla, founder of Being Social, said the flags will be disposed of as per the Flag Code, and people can visit and deposit their flags. Those who are unable to visit can call and ask for flags to be collected at the doorstep. The volunteers of the organisation shall send them to Nexus Koramangala.

The Lalbagh Flower Show and Congress rally helped increase the ridership

Metro sets record, sees 8.25L ridership

ENS @ Bengaluru

WHEN its operations ended for the day around midnight on Independence Day, Namma Metro had touched a historic high of 8,25,190 riders on Monday.

This was over two lakh more than its previous highest ridership figure of over 6.1 lakh (October 25, 2019). Short loop trains, opening up additional counters, roping in more staff for security checks, taking help of local police outside stations - the Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) had to do everything it could to manage the unprecedented crowds spilling over its trains and platforms. In a rare instance, the Green Line beat the Purple Line by clocking 4,02,068 riders as compared to 2,58,984 on the Purple Line. The Lalbagh station which issued return paper tickets for the Flower Show and National College which issued 80,000 paper tickets for Congress workers were responsible for achieving the feat.

AS Shankar Executive Director, Operations and Maintenance, told TNIE, "We ran 163 trips on Purple Line (Kengeri to Baiyappanahalli and back) and 161 trips on the Green Line (Silk Institute to Nagasandra and back). In addition to that, we ran short loop trips running only between Lalbagh Metro station and Nagasandra and National College and Nagasandra on the Green Line."

Train doors could not be shut at many places due to riders spilling out of coaches. Anjum Parwez, MD, BMRCL, said, "We created history yesterday. It was over 2 lakh more than our previous highest."

THE world's largest passenger airliner — Airbus A380 — will make its debut at Kempegowda International Airport courtesy Emirates. The flight EK 568 will depart from Dubai International Airport at 9.25 pm on October 30 and reach Bengaluru at 2.30 am the next day. EK 569 will depart from Bengaluru at 4.30 am on October 31 and reach Dubai at 7.10 am. It will be second airport in India to host A380 with Mumbai being the first.

"Flagship A380 service to be introduced as a daily service and allows customers travelling to and from the South Indian city to enjoy the much-loved signature experience," stated a press release.

Bengaluru will join Emirates' network of over 30 destinations served by A380. The deployment of the double-decker aircraft will complement its existing services, EK564/565 and EK566/567, each also operating on a daily basis with modern wide-body Boeing 777 aircraft. From October 30, Emirates' will therefore run three daily flights to and from Bengaluru, the release said.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

17TH August: I mentioned commercial space travel yesterday. As we know, we can now hitch a quick ride in the weightlessness zone just above the Earth, where we float around in a space-ship. The one snag is that the astronomical cost rules most of us out! I think I'll hold out until I can go up for a week at least. Maybe I will live long enough to go to the Moon!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20) Tempers at home may well fray, but there's no reason why you should be responsible. Don't let other people pin the blame on you, as they are all too prone to do at times like this. But don't be so impatient that you plant the seeds of future troubles.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21) I am sorry my stars for the week are tending to the gloomy side, but I'm only the messenger! However, the real problems could be that you worry too much, even when there's nothing to worry about. The good news today is that at least you can now talk to people about what must be done next.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21) Each and every planetary movement is exerting a subtle effect on your entire consciousness. Mars, for example, is pulling the carpet from under your feet. Saturn is encouraging you to pause for thought. It's therefore time to give controversial projects a break.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23) You're in quite a strong situation for once. Current planetary influences strengthen your position; a useful factor considering the generally petulant and combative state of the heavens. There is no reason to expect other people to share your beliefs, by the way.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23) Venus advocates domestic entertaining and family harmony, but Pluto has other ideas. Watch any tendency to push people to the limit, or to stretch yourself too far for that matter. It will only be possible to go to extremes if you take the necessary safeguards.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23) It's an idealistic moment, one when everything centres on your most deeply-held principles. And to continue one Virgoan theme, it is extremely likely that you're going to get involved in a worthwhile charitable activity. I can see many of you rattling those collecting tins.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23) You can spare a little extra time for work and other worldly ambitions at the moment. Play your cards right over the next forty-eight hours and cash rewards could be your ultimate prize. Take each step as it comes, and pause to think again as soon as you feel that doubts are emerging.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22) Although you appear to be caught in the crossfire at the moment, you may bring agreement to troubled quarters. No doubt you are annoyed by others' tendency to disagree, but there's no urgency for you to get involved. Neither is there any reason to clear up other people's mess!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22) Everything that I've said about your financial situation should now be coming to a head. Today is the perfect time to deal with money, whether you're shifting millions of pounds from one continent to another, or merely after a bargain at the corner shop.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20) Do take notice of what partners have to say today. Even if they are apparently not making sense, their assorted statements will be relevant to the somewhat strained mood of the times. Next week should be more relaxed! Until then, keep an eye on wayward children.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19) Although you appear to have gone way over the top lately, there is a case to be made for partners to be grateful. After all, others should thank you for shaking them up and making them look at their lives anew. As it happens, it's also a perfect moment for keeping fit.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20) You seem to be caught up in a complex and emotionally disturbing situation, but the good point is that the stars are on your side. You might even enjoy the prospect of getting to know someone closer. They, for their part, could be charmed by your seductive wiles.

RPF cops save woman from jaws of death

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

A 24-year-old mother of two children, who tried to commit suicide by lying on the tracks in the face of an approaching express train near Channasandra railway station, was rescued by two alert personnel of the Railway Protection Force (RPF).

Harassment and mental agony allegedly by her husband drove her to take the extreme step, sources said.

The incident occurred at 4.45 pm on Monday when the train from Chattrapathi Shivaji Terminus, Mumbai, to Tiruvananthapuram Central station was approaching towards Channasandra station which falls under Bengaluru Railway Division. "Just a few minutes before the train could cross the tracks, the woman went and lay down on the tracks. RPF Inspector V N Chambanna was patrolling the tracks at a distance and spotted her. He tried to get the help of a few women to remove her physically from the tracks but when he sensed the train was coming close, he rushed towards her and dragged her out. Constable Deo Prakash assisted him," a source said. It was a close shave as they just pulled her to safety and the train zoomed past the tracks, he added.

The incident occurred near the city's Channasandra railway station | EXPRESS

The woman was in a completely traumatised state and an NGO at the station counselled her. It took her over three hours to open up, the source said.

She is a graduate and a resident of Dargah Mohalla area in Dooravani Nagar. "Harassment by her husband and the mental agony it caused forced her to end her life," another source said. "The lady woman taken her two young children to the bus stand and told them to leave to their grandparents place and then came to the Channasandra railway station," he said.

Her parents were called to the station, both parties counselled, and the woman was sent home with them.

Two samples test -ve for monkeypox

SHILPA P @ Bengaluru

SAMPLES of two more suspected cases of monkeypox, tested at Virus Research and Diagnostic Laboratory (VRDL) at Bengaluru Medical College and Research Institute (BMCRI), came negative.

Sources in the health department said VRDL received the sample of a 47-year-old male from Bengaluru, who had returned from Dubai on August 8. He had symptoms of monkeypox and had visited a private hospital for treatment. His sample was sent from the hospital to VRDL on August 12.

VRDL also received a sample of another four-year-old boy the same day, from a private hospital in Dharwad. Samples of both cases tested negative for monkeypox, and were concluded to be cases of viral infection. So far, VRDL has received five samples, all of which tested negative.

Meanwhile, the Infectious Disease Research Foundation (IDRF) has begun sewage surveillance by testing samples at Bengaluru International Airport to look for the monkeypox virus, as per recommendations of the Technical Advisory Committee. Reports are awaited.

Drunk driving lands officer's driver in net

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

RR Nagar Joint Commissioner Nagaraj's driver Shankar was involved in a late night drink-and-drive incident. The car was going in a zigzag manner, and ended up hitting another car. As the crowd gathered and took Shankar to task, Byatarayanapura traffic police towed the car away, and registered a case against him.

Nagaraj told The New Indian Express that the incident happened around 9.30pm on August 15, and following the incident, action was initiated against the driver. "He dropped me and was heading back. There was traffic as movie goers were coming from Gopalan Mall. While trying to avoid a two-wheeler, the driver rammed a car. There was no casualty, and the car suffered only a small dent. A showcause notice was issued against the driver," said the official.

According to BBMP sources, the matter would not have come to light had people not noticed the Palike vehicle. As the driver was drunk and smelling of liquor, police decided to take the car to the station limits. Shankar was asked to leave after a drink-and-drive case was registered.

Palike officials have given standing instructions to all drivers who are permanent and those on contract, not to get involved in such cases and any other traffic violations.

HR professional washed away in Chunchi falls

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A 26-year-old HR professional died after he slipped off a rock and was washed away into the Chunchi Falls in Sathanur, near Kanakapura, in Ramanagara district.

The deceased was identified as Praveen Chandra, a resident of Shankar Mutt in Bengaluru. Police said Chandra and two of his friends had come to the falls on Sunday afternoon. Despite warnings by guards, they hoodwinked them and entered the prohibited area. Chandra was sitting on a rock and his friend was taking his picture, when he slipped and was washed away.

"A search was carried out on Monday and his body was found late in the evening. As it was dark and the body was stuck deep in the water, the operation was suspended, and resumed on Tuesday morning. The body was fished out with the help of diving experts," Sathanur police, who registered a case, added.

GOVERNMENT OF KARNATAKA

NAVA KARNATAKA
FOR NAVA BHARAT

Har Ghar Tiranga
13th - 15th August 2022

Shri Basavaraj S. Bommai
Hon'ble Chief Minister

Thank you..

I want to thank the people of Karnataka for making our Prime Minister Sri Narendra Modi's 'Har Ghar Tiranga' campaign a stupendous success. The Tricolour was hoisted at over 1.25 Crore houses, shops, establishments and government offices of the state making 'Har Ghar Tiranga' campaign an unparalleled success.

We have also celebrated Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav in a meaningful way over the last year. Scores of programs have been held across the state to remember freedom fighters and their sacrifices and to cherish nationalist thoughts (Chintana Manthana). All these have created an upsurge in patriotism and nationalism in the state. The enthusiasm shown by common people has spurred political parties and organizations to take to streets to celebrate 75th anniversary of India's independence on a grand scale.

The unprecedented success of 'Har Ghar Tiranga' for three days is a testimony to the deep love felt by Kannadigas towards their flag and country. This campaign, held during the auspicious time of Amrit Mahotsav and celebrated in the most memorable way, was the cherished dream of our dear prime minister. I want to thank all of you from the bottom of my heart for realizing this dream. The success of 'Har Ghar Tiranga' has been the pinnacle of 'Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav' celebrations. The 'Amrit Kaal' has truly begun now.

The 'Har Ghar Tiranga' campaign has inspired the state's youth and has inculcated a spirit of patriotism in them. I am overwhelmed by the phenomenal response of citizens from all walks of life leaving aside their affiliations to party, caste, creed and religion. I thank one and all from the bottom of my heart. May the patriotism and national fervor kindled by people's involvement in this campaign take the State of Karnataka to greater heights in the coming years.

Once again, I express my heartfelt gratitude to the people of my state.

Yours,

Basavaraj S. Bommai

Kolar emerges among top seats for Siddu to contest

Considered a Cong stronghold, constituency profile suits ex-CM

K SHIVA KUMAR @ Mysuru

AFTER Siddaramostava, the mega birthday bash of Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah, his close associates are now prevailing upon him to soon finalise the Assembly seat to contest from in the 2023 elections. Siddaramaiah's followers want him to aim for the chief minister's post again and pick a safe seat. Haunted by his loss from Chamundeshwari in 2018, they are getting an internal survey done, taking the feedback from leaders of several constituencies so that Siddaramaiah can sail through easily. Such a seat would free him up to campaign across the state, they said.

Requests are pouring in asking him to contest from Varuna, Koppal, Badami, Kolar and Chamarajpet seats, and his followers want him to make the choice in a couple of months so that they can prepare the ground. Kolar is emerging as one of the favourites, not just for Siddaramaiah, but also for a section of party leaders.

KPCC working president R Druvanarayan wants him back in Varuna, terming it lucky for the former CM as people from all sections want him to contest.

Kolar is among the top choices as it is considered a stronghold of Congress. Along with a large number Dalits and Muslims, the constituency has a good population of backward classes and Vokkaligas. Also, over 50 per cent of electorate is Kuruba. BJP is not a potent force here, while JDS, which managed to win previously, is on the decline after sitting MLA Srinivasa Gowda identified with Congress and was expelled from the party.

Congress has won from the seat only four times since 1957. After its victory in 2004, the party base started eroding with former minister Vartur Prakash and Srinivasa Gowda switching over to JDS in 2008. It will be interesting if Siddaramaiah chooses to run from here, bring leaders back to the party fold and organise workers at the booth level. He also has to balance between the factions of former minister S Ramesh Kumar and former Union Minister KH Muniyappa. With JDS being a potential threat, he must also reach out to Vokkaligas and Muslims, who make up 25 per cent of the electorate.

Political observers felt that Siddaramaiah's entry into Kolar will have a ripple effect in the undivided Kolar district, where JDS is a force. It will help sitting Congress MLAs overcome anti-incumbency. Logistically too, Kolar is convenient as it is just 60 km from Bengaluru, they added. His supporters are looking to harp on the KC Valley project to fill up tanks in the drought-prone region and point out that it was part of the Bhagirath scheme introduced during his tenure as chief minister. An invitation from Srinivasa Gowda for Siddaramaiah to contest from here will be an icing on the cake.

Sources said Siddaramaiah has not thought of returning to Varuna, but is also not too keen on Chamrajpet as he has never fought from an urban pocket in his entire career.

KOLAR
A GOLD MINE?

- Congress last won the poll from Kolar in 2004
- Profile: Dalits, Muslims, Vokkaligas, Kuruba's, OBCs
- KC Valley project likely to work in the former CM's favour.
- Factionalism in Congress may add to Siddaramaiah's worries
- Proximity to Bengaluru city
- Kolar, Varuna, Koppal, Badami, Chamrajpet are among favourites for him to contest in 2023

Normal life paralysed in Shivamogga

A deserted street in Shivamogga on Tuesday a day after two groups clashed | SHIMOGA NANDAN

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Shivamogga

NORMAL life was paralysed in Shivamogga city on Tuesday too, a day after two groups clashed over the display of portraits of Hindu Mahasabha leader VD Savarkar and Mysore ruler Tipu Sultan. A youth was also stabbed minutes after the clash on Monday afternoon.

By and large, the city remained calm on Tuesday. All business establishments remained closed and the police took stringent measures restricting the movement of people in the city. Life came to a standstill after 10.30 am.

All schools and colleges too remained closed. Deputy Commissioner Dr R Selvamani, however, said they will reopen in Shivamogga and Bhadravathi urban areas on Wednesday.

All roads leading to Ameer Ahmad Circle where Monday's clash erupted were shut. City buses too did not ply, while only office-goers were allowed to move around. Most of the main roads in the city wore a deserted look with only a few autorickshaws plying.

Rapid Action Force (RAF) personnel took out a march in sensitive areas of Shivamogga. The police ensured that no vendors were out on the streets. All vendors and business establishments in the extension area too were asked to shut by 10 am. Only pharmacies, milk parlours and hospitals were allowed to remain open.

Police patrolling was intensified in the entire city and especially in old parts of Shivamogga, including Seegehatti, Clerkpet, OT Road, Azad Nagar and nearby localities.

Cutout creates row in Udupi

UDUPI: Congress workers on Tuesday warned that they will launch a protest if a cutout of VD Savarkar at Brahmagiri Circle here is not removed. A complaint has been filed against its installation with the Udupi Town police. Sensing trouble, the police stepped up security near the circle. The cutout does not mention the name of the organisation, but has the slogan, 'Jai Hindu Rashtra', on it. The local SDPI unit too objected to the writing on the cutout that it was Savarkar and Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose who earned India its freedom. It is said the local municipality granted permission to put the cutout for 15 days, while the police claimed that they cannot remove it as that may lead to clashes. Congress leaders have written to CMC commissioner Uday Shetty, asking him to remove the cutout. ENS

Names of Tipu, Rani Channamma 'go missing'

ENS @ Bengaluru

A day after Independence Day celebrations at the Manekshaw Parade Ground in Bengaluru, the Opposition Congress has accused both the district administration and Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) of insulting Kittur Rani Channamma and Tipu Sultan as their names were removed from the fort gates of the ground.

Sharing the photos of previous years' celebrations and this year's, many Congress leaders alleged that it was government's 'mischief'. Former Minister R Ramalinga Reddy said that the BJP forefathers have no role in India's freedom struggle. "The present day BJP leaders are hell bent on insulting freedom fighters. Removing the names of Rani Channamma and Tipu Sultan, who fought against the British, is condemnable," he charged.

Former opposition leader in the BBMP Council Abdul Wajid said, "Both the district administration and BBMP are responsible for this. It appears that they have painted the wall and removed the names under pressure from the government." While R Shilpa, Joint Commissioner of East Zone, said the responsibility of preparing the ground for the event rests with BBMP, a district administration official said he was not aware of the incident and would look into it.

3-day Devaraj Urs Utsav from August 20 in all districts

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mangaluru

MINISTER for Social Welfare and Backward Classes Kota Srinivas Poojary on Tuesday said that from this year, the State Government will give an award in the name of former chief minister D Devaraj Urs on his birth anniversary in all 31 districts.

Addressing the media here, the minister said hitherto the State Government was celebrating Urs' birth anniversary as Backward Classes Day at the Banquet Hall in Vidhana Soudha. "From this year, there will be three-day celebrations in all districts. On the occasion, D Devaraj Urs district level award will be presented to a person who has worked for the welfare of backward classes by adopting his ideals. A three-member selection committee has been formed in all districts to choose the awardee," he said. The award carries a cash prize of Rs 50,000.

He said the three-day event will include an expo and sale of products manufactured by weavers, potters and other backward classes involving traditional occupations and competitions like speech, essay and drawings on Devaraj Urs. Poojary maintained that the Devaraj Urs Utsav has not been organised with an eye on Assembly elections.

The minister said various programmes and schemes of Backward Classes and Social Welfare Department, which were discontinued due to lack of funds owing to Covid-19 in the last two years, have resumed this year.

In the wake of a huge demand for hostels, 50 Kanakadasa hostels, 100 Dr BR Ambedkar hostels and 5 Deen Dayal hostels will come up in Karnataka within two years, he added.

2% quota for sportspersons to be extended to all depts

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE state government will extend 2 per cent job reservation to sportspersons in all government departments, said Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, here on Tuesday.

At present, only police and forest departments are providing 2 per cent reservation for sportspersons during recruitment.

He was speaking after felicitating medallists of the recent Commonwealth Games held in Birmingham, UK, as well as 75 sportspersons selected under the 'Amrit Kreeda Dattu Yojane' on Tuesday.

Bommai said the government has decided to recognise basketball as the state game. The state government has realised that there is a need to give job security to sportspersons, he said, and urged them to play for the country. "The remaining will be taken care of by the government," he added.

Bommai said Karnataka is the first state to take up Amrit sports adoption Scheme. "We have chosen basketball as the state game and we will develop basketball courts across the state. To identify sporting talent, we will organise a rural sports meet in the next two months. We appeal to them not to worry about anything... just focus on sports," he added.

Restrictions in Shivamogga

ADGP Kumar, Eastern Range IGP K Thiyagarajan and SP BM Laxmi Prasad patrolled the city and Bhadravati to monitor the situation on Tuesday. DC Dr Selvamani also monitored the situation. "People need not worry as they have the protection of the government. Miscreants will be dealt with with an iron hand," he told reporters during his visit to Bheemeshwara Temple.

Meanwhile, the police and Rapid Action Force personnel conducted a flag march in the city. The police also enforced several restrictions, including banning male pillion riders below the age of 40 and disallowing motorcycles to ply between 9 pm and 5 am. Gathering of more than five people is also banned.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

IN the light of Shivamogga witnessing violence over displaying a portrait of VD Savarkar, a six-month-old photograph of the Hindu Mahasabha leader inside Bengaluru Metro's Kempegowda Interchange Station has now stirred a controversy online. The framed display in the concourse area, beneath the staircase leading from the KSR Railway Station to the Metro station depicts Savarkar along with freedom fighters Chandrashekhar Azad and Udham Singh.

Conceding that the matter has been debated for the last two days on social media, a BMRCL source said, "It was part of a tie-up with Chitrakala Parishath to beautify our walls. Paintings of numerous freedom fighters adorn our walls. Suddenly, a controversy has erupted over the last two days with strong statements put out on both sides as to whether it should remain or not."

Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Ltd has not received any official communication from any side, any personality or organisation so far calling for its removal, another source said.

An organisation, 'Bhutva Karnataka', objected to the painting and posted it on Twitter, triggering the online debate. "Hello, officers of BMRCL, why have you put up Savarkar's photo? What is his contribution? Why should we respect someone who apologised to the British? Didn't you get anyone else, whose order is this?" the post questioned.

Rushing to Savarkar's defence was Deepak Pai. He responded, "Well known agents of the British who divided India are Jinnah and Nehru. Savarkar is a freedom fighter. Indian Parliament does have Savarkar photo. Do you have the guts to remove it?"

Asked if there has been any tightening of security in light of the controversy, a senior official said, "Our stations are always secure. There are enough CCTV cameras and enough number of personnel posted."

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

THE wait for a boat ride at the famous Srirangapatna Fort in Mandya district, is only getting longer. While the dilapidated fort is waiting for repairs, four years after the boat ride announcement, the boating project will have to wait until three departments — Archaeology, PWD and Tourism — do their bit.

The project was announced when Sa Ra Mahesh was Tourism minister in the Kumaraswamy government. CT Ravi, as Tourism minister in the Yediyurappa government, had told the assembly that Rs 5 crore had been released for the project. It has now been taken up by current Tourism Minister Anand Singh.

Since the fort is a monument, repairs cannot be entrusted to the PWD as it requires the expertise of the state archaeology department. The Tourism department has been entrusted the job of introducing boating after the fort is repaired, but has not transferred funds to the Archaeology department, sources said. Tourism director T Venkatesh, however, said the fort will be made a tourist attraction. Srirangapatna Fort, one of the oldest forts in Karnataka, is located in Mandya district -- a drive of over two hours from Bengaluru. It was built by Thimmanna Nayaka in 1454 and gained in prominence during the rule of Tipu Sultan. The river Cauvery surrounds the fort on one side.

According to the proposal, the area around the fort will be cleaned and a surrounding trench built, into which Cauvery water will be filled. During the reign of kings, water from the tunnel was used to surround the fort and protect it from enemies.

The State government has allotted funds for the project, but it has not taken off. People who were hoping the boat ride would be part of Dasara celebrations, are disappointed. Tourism Minister Anand Singh was unavailable for comment.

Bommai among worst CMs, says Surjewala

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

"THE Bommai government has failed to maintain law and order, leading to chaos across the state. Bommai is among the most inefficient CMs in the country and he is heading a government that is corrupt," charged AICC general secretary and Karnataka incharge Randeep Singh Surjewala, here on Tuesday.

"How is it that criminals and anti-social elements are murdering innocent people in broad daylight? Why is the government a mute spectator? Our party leaders have vowed to fight against BJP-sponsored conspiracies to divide society. Till we overthrow this government with the cooperation of the people, we will not rest, '' he said. The deteriorating law and order situation and violence in coastal Karnataka and Shivamogga are a testimony to the failure of Bommai, he added. "The law minister (JC Madhu Swamy) himself has confessed that this government is not functioning. One minister is criticising another," he said.

Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah said, "Bommai has assigned ministers to cover up what Madhu Swamy said. Is this government really functioning?"

Authorities issued the third warning as the Godavari crossed the 53-feet mark in Bhadrachalam as of 8 pm on Tuesday. However, Bhadradri Kothagudem SP Dr Vineeth G said the water level is expected to rise to 55 feet by late Tuesday night

DMK files impleadment petition in Supreme Court on freebies case

Party wants tax sops, loan waiver of corporates to be considered by apex court

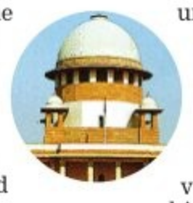
R SIVAKUMAR @ Chennai

THE ruling DMK, through its organising secretary RS Bharathi, has filed an application before the Supreme Court seeking to implead itself in the case against freebies.

As per the impleadment petition, the party wants the court to consider the issues of Centre's tax holidays offered to foreign companies, waiver of bad loans of influential industrialists, and granting crucial contracts to favoured conglomerates etc, while deciding the case.

It said the issues raised in the case are of great public importance and has a pan-India ramification as under "freebies" different schemes have been promulgated targeting different population demographics.

Saying that a straitjacket formula cannot be applied to decide what scheme could be termed as a freebie, the petition said since Schedule VII of the Constitution distributes different subject matters to the Centre and States, which are empowered to promulgate welfare schemes on matters relating to concurrent and State lists, the term freebies cannot be interpreted in a way that interferes with the State's competence under Schedule VII.



Submitting that a welfare scheme providing a free service is introduced to secure social order and economic justice under Article 38 to minimise inequalities in income, status, facilities and opportunities, the party said, "Such schemes have been introduced in order to provide basic necessities which the poor households cannot afford. They cannot be imputed to be luxuries."

Schemes such as free electricity can have a multi-dimensional effect on a poor household. Electricity can provide lighting, heating and cooling resulting in better standard of living. It can facilitate a child in education and studies.

"A welfare scheme, therefore, can have a wider reach and multiple intentions behind its introduction and the cascading effect arising from it cannot be defined in a restrictive meaning as a freebie," the petition said.

Pointing out that the scope of a freebie is very wide and there are a lot of aspects which have to be considered, the petition said welfare scheme of a State government alone cannot be classified as a freebie.

People take part at a mass recital of the National Anthem at Abids Chacha Nehru statue in Hyderabad on Tuesday | VINAY MADAPU

KCR calls Modi 'enemy of the state'

VV BALAKRISHNA @ Hyderabad

THOUSANDS of voices sang the National Anthem when the National Flag sprouted at all important junctions across the State on Tuesday. A sense of nationalism permeated the air as a sea of the Tiranga fluttered at gatherings from Abids in Hyderabad to sprawling grounds in the districts.

When the clock struck 11.30 am, traffic came to a grinding halt. Commuters and pedestrians alike stood still for 52 seconds as did Chief Minister K Chandrasekhar Rao, AIMIM chief Asaduddin Owaisi and other leaders and recited Jana Gana Mana. A few hours later, the Chief Minister invoked the Telangana sentiment at a meeting in Vikarabad, branding Prime Minister Narendra Modi 'Enemy of the State'.

It was indeed quite a spectacle — the combination of nationalism and Telangana sentiment, which perhaps, the ruling TRS considers to be the perfect antidote to the BJP's surge in Telangana.

The mass recitation of the National Anthem was part of the State government's ongoing two-week long Swatantra Bharatha Vajrotsavalu — rivalling the Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav of the Modi government - to celebrate 75 years of Independence. So, if the Modi government had given a call for Har Ghar Tiranga, the KCR government distributed flags free of cost to the public. And, going one up on the Centre, organised the mass recitation of the soul stirring Anthem. Speaking in Vikarabad after inaugurating the District Collectorate Complex constructed at an estimated cost of ₹60.7 core and laying the foundation for a new medical college, KCR sought to 'expose' the Modi government. "The Prime Minister has become our enemy," said the Chief Minister K Chandrasekhar Rao, while explaining the reasons for non-completion of Palamuru-Rangareddy Lift Irrigation Project.

Blaming the BJP-led Central government for all the ills plaguing the country, Rao called upon people to send the BJP government packing in order to bring the best in its place, which could do some good to the States.

"We should chase away the evil forces and teach a befitting lesson to them," Rao exhorted the people. In the same breath, he promised, "We will provide water to Vikarabad under Palamuru-Rangareddy project. But, the people should know who stopped the project by filing cases in the court and expose them. Palamuru-Rangareddy project has been delayed due to the sheer folly and incapacity of the Central government. Those activists, who waved BJP flags before my bus today, should go to Delhi and explain to the Prime Minister the reason for the delay in completing the project," he said.

AIDSO condemns Raj student death

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE state committee of the All India Democratic Students' Organisation (AIDSO) has condemned the alleged assault by a teacher on a Class 3 student of the Dalit community, at a school in Jalore district of Rajasthan, for reportedly touching a water pitcher meant for the headmaster. The assault reportedly caused the student's death, after treatment failed at a hospital in Ahmedabad, 23 days after the incident.

AIDSO state secretary Ajay Kamath stated that even as India has celebrated 75 years of Independence, such incidents reflect that the caste system and inequality still prevail in the country. "A teacher's responsibility is not just to teach students, but also to groom them into good humans with values. If a teacher doesn't have such values, if he is not free from prejudice and superstition, how can such a teacher mould good students with values?" he questioned, urging stringent action against the teacher.

Bill to curtail guv's role in appointment of VCs gets nod

T'Puram: Opening a new front in its tussle with the Raj Bhawan, the Kerala cabinet on Tuesday approved a bill seeking to curtail the Governor's role in the appointment of Vice Chancellors in universities. The bill proposes reconstitution of the search-cum-selection committee to choose the VC in such a manner that the government gets the upper hand. ENS

Livestock trading app a boon for farmers

HE said farmers and farm producers' organisations (FPOs) are being trained on the e-trading platform so that farmers get the maximum income.

On the app, once the deal is accepted online, the buyer will deposit a certain amount to the account of the farmer and settle the entire sum before lifting the animal. There is no credit system in the sale of sheep and goats, he added.

Dr C Thippeswamy, chief veterinarian of Karnataka Sheep and Wool Development Corporation, said that normally, sheep and goats are taken to markets and middlemen are involved in the trade. There are chances of farmers suffering losses. But with the e-platform, no such issues arise and farmers get the full benefit without the intervention of middlemen.

Now, in Chitradurga district, FPOs at Yelladakere, Chitradurga and Challakere, have registered and trading has started.

'Multiple bidding can be done'

Multiple buyers can bid on the same lot of sheep and they will not know the price of other bids. However, the farmer will know the amounts and can take up the best bid before finalising the deal, he added.

As many as 100 animals have been traded through the NeML app by farmers from Kodigenahalli village of Madhugiri taluk in Tumakuru district. The sheep belonging to farmers Nagireddy and Lakshmish Reddy of Shree Mylaralingeshwara Kuri Mathu Unne Utpadakara Sahakara Sangha, Kodigenahalli were bought by one of the leading meat traders in the country. The farmers received the payment of all the 100 sheep at their doorstep and farmers were happy with the trading and revenue received.

FACTFILE

The NeML livestock app helps in bridging the gap between traders and consumers thereby removing the presence of middlemen in trading livestock. Sheep and goat trading will be done online.

Farmers, members of the farmers producers organisations and co-operative societies can trade through this app.

The new application has got appreciation from the Prime Minister's Office.

WATER CONTAMINATION

5-YEAR-OLD DIES, 10 TAKE ILL IN VIJAYANAGARA

KIRAN BALANNANAVAR @ Hosapete

A five-year-old girl died and more than 10 villagers were hospitalised after they consumed suspected contaminated drinking water in Kyasanakeri village of Kudligi taluk in Vijayanagara district on Tuesday. The deceased, Bindu N, who was admitted to VIMS Hospital on August 13, died on Monday.

This is the third such incident due to contaminated water in the undivided Ballari district since the monsoon season began this year. Vijayanagara Deputy Commissioner, Zilla Panchayat CEO and Health Department officials visited the village. Water samples have been sent to laboratories for testing. Anirudh Sravan P, Deputy Commissioner, Vijayanagara said they are waiting for the lab report. "The girl died after developing symptoms like diarrhoea. The family members and villagers say the girl developed the symptoms after she consumed the suspected drinking water," Sravan said.

"More than 15 people are suffering from dehydration and vomiting. We suspect it's due to consuming contaminated drinking water. A makeshift hospital with a team of doctors has been set up in the village and officials are monitoring the situation. People who develop symptoms of dehydration, vomiting and fever are being shifted to the temporary hospital for treatment," he said.

Another senior official claimed the district administration is supplying purified drinking water to the villagers. Awareness about drinking water, educating people to drink boiled water and other measures have been initiated. Health workers, district administration staff and doctors are camping in the village.

TRAIL OF CASES

MAY 2021
Seven died in Makarabbi village of Vijayanagara district. As many as 60 villagers were admitted to a hospital

JULY 2022
A 11-year-old girl died in Gonal village of Ballari district and 35 more were hospitalised after consuming contaminated water.

AUGUST 2022
85 people were hospitalised after drinking contaminated water in Ankanal village of Ballari district

HC dismisses PIL against land grant

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

OBSERVING that the petitioner has failed to make out a case of a violation of statutory right or fundamental right and the allotment of land on lease has not been made for any commercial purpose, the Karnataka High Court dismissed a PIL filed by a city lawyer. The advocate had questioned the approval for the allotment of 18 acres of land, including 15 acres to Inter-University Centre for Yogic-Science (IUCYS), one acre to Central Board of Secondary Education for set up its regional office and 2 acres to Council for Architecture for a regional centre on the premises of Bangalore University.

A division bench of Acting Chief Justice Alok Aradhe and Justice S Vishwajith Shetty dismissed the petition by Dr KB Vijaykumar seeking cancellation of the allotment of land on the premises of Bangalore University, spread across 1,112 acres.

ALERT NEIGHBOURS

3 CAUGHT RED-HANDED ROBBING LOCKED HOTEL

PRAVEEN KUMAR @ Bengaluru

THREE members of a six-member gang have been caught red-handed while stealing items from a locked hotel on Bengaluru-Mysuru Road on Saturday. The thieves who were caught by the neighbours were locked inside a room. The neighbours then informed the matter to the landlord who had rented his space for the hotel — Blue Moon Hotel at Mayaganahalli.

The three other accused who are absconding have managed to steal some items, including kitchen items, hookah benches, hookah pipes, and freezers, ice-cream making machines. They have taken them in a tempo traveller. The hotel was closed during the pandemic after the owner incurred loss.

Of the six, three are said to have come to purchase the hotel items from the other three thieves as they were in the process of starting a hotel in the city. It is said that the buyers were not aware that the other three were thieves and assumed that the hotel belonged to them.

The cost of the hotel items that have been taken away is worth around Rs 10 lakh.

Fifty-nine-year-old P Nagaraj, the landlord, said that the three suspects have been handed over to the police. "Of the three, two are thieves, the other one is a buyer. The thieves are said to be a gang of professional thieves and are active in and around Bengaluru. They are all residing in the vicinity of Sunkadakatte. After the hotel was closed, I was looking after the locked premises. It is not clear if the owner is interested in reopening the hotel or to sell it," he added.

The arrested are identified as Chikkaraju, Karthik and Mani. "Of the three who are absconding, two of them are identified as Arun and Satya," said the police.

New crab species found near Yellapur is India's 75th

SUBHASH CHANDRA NS @ Yellapur (Uttara Kannada)

A new species of crab, 'Dwivarna', has been discovered in Uttara Kannada district and it is endemic to Yellapur. Coincidentally, the scientific acceptance of Dwivarna, the 75th crab species in the country, came on August 15, the day the country celebrated 75 years of Independence.

Gopal Krishna Hegde, a wildlife enthusiast and photographer from a tiny village near Yellapur, and Forest Guard Parashuram Bhajantri, based in Kadra, did not know what they had discovered when they bumped into a freshwater crab with unique, attractive colours in the forests of Bhare.

A year after the discovery, the dual-toned crab, with white head and purple body, has been named Ghatiana Dwivarna (dichromatic). According to local experts, the crab lives in the rocky crust of Western Ghats amid water bodies. "It is one of the unique crabs," Hegde told TNIE, while the Geological Survey of India too confirmed it as a unique species. Hegde and Bhajantri have been conferred with the title 'Citizen Scientists.'

Dwivarna, which is around 3 inches long and 2 inches wide, is not edible and thrives on moss and lichens.

Hegde and Bhajantri said they saw the crab for the first time on June 30, 2021. "We were surprised as we had never seen such a colourful crab before. We thought it was interesting and immediately took a few photographs and videos. When we started looking, we did not find anything similar on Google or any books," said Hegde.

The two then started thinking that this could be a new crab species. "We wanted confirmation and contacted Dr Varadagiri, a senior scientist who heads the Reliance Foundation and had earlier worked with the Bombay Natural History Society. He said this might be a new species and asked us to contact Tejas Thakre of Thakre Foundation and Sameer Kumar Pathi of Zoological Survey of India -- a scientist specialising on crabs. Pathi was surprised and personally came down to Yellapur to confirm the finding. He found it and established the finding. He wrote a scientific paper and got it published with our names mentioned as the ones who discovered it," Hegde said.

AP GOVT MUST MAKE SCHOOL MERGERS MORE FLEXIBLE

Though it has been quite some time since the academic year began, many students and parents are still going through anxious moments. The reason being the Andhra Pradesh government's decision to partly merge 5,900 primary and upper primary schools with high schools in the State. The intention, it asserts, is to improve the quality of education as per the guidelines of the National Education Policy. But then, as they say, the road to hell is paved with good intentions.

The decision as such need not be faulted. High schools have better infrastructure and as the government clarified, "it is a merger of classes rather than schools"—meaning only students from class III to V will be shifted to nearby high schools. On paper, the idea looks good. In practice, it has thrown up hundreds of complaints from dismayed parents. Approximately 2.4 lakh students are being moved to high schools and in this process, complaints pertaining to increased distance and separation of siblings to different schools, and importantly, skewed number of teacher-student ratio have been pouring in from several districts. The high schools do have infrastructure but they are finding it difficult to cope with the sudden arrival of hundreds of students. Fears of closure of primary and upper primary schools are also gripping the parents despite assurances to the contrary. This massive exercise comes in the wake of the migration of more than seven lakh students from private to government schools during the pandemic.

As per officials, 5,870 schools have been merged across the State, and the process to address hundreds of complaints is in progress. In hindsight, it appears the government ought to have carried this out in phases after taking parents into confidence. It is unfair on parents and students to make them run for no fault of theirs. Though the government claims students can join a school of their choice, the situation is different on the ground, forcing many to turn to private schools. At least now, the education department should make this merger transparent and hassle-free and in cases where the high schools are overwhelmed, it should be rolled back. It cannot drag this on for months to come.

TWO FLOPS AND A 'LAGAAN' LESSON

There was a lot at stake for Bollywood when two big titles were released on the extended Independence Day weekend. Aamir Khan's 'Laal Singh Chaddha', and the Akshay Kumar starrer, 'Raksha Bandhan', were both expected to give the Hindi film industry a much-needed boost after movie audiences had disappeared during the Covid-19 pandemic. However, both movies belied expectations and created negative records by registering a 20% or more decline in revenue on a National Holiday. 'Laal Singh Chaddha', made on a budget of nearly ₹200 crore, turned in just ₹46 crore over the extended five-day weekend. 'Raksha Bandhan' too flopped with box office collections of ₹32 crore, having burnt ₹130 crore in the making.

These films are as good as gone as box office revenue is all front-loaded. The opening is make-or-break. Many reasons are being cited for the debacle. Khan's adaptation of the Tom Hanks hit 'Forrest Gump' is localised in Punjab, where the story of the meandering simpleton just does not seem to have resonated with the audience. 'Raksha Bandhan', on the other hand, tries to pull off a comedy layered on backward social and cultural mores, but it does not work. As the lesson has been repeatedly taught, big stars are a draw, but they are not an answer to a sloppy production with no story to tell.

Who should know this better than Aamir Khan, whose first 2001 production 'Lagaan' pulled off Bollywood history with a powerful plot of Village India fighting the British colonial tax regime with a game of cricket? Did boycott calls go against Laal Singh Chaddha? Could be, but then, there is nothing that can stop a strong performance. 'Dangal', another 2016 Aamir Khan film about the story of two female wrestlers, was a runaway hit despite negative publicity. There is a lot of lip service paid to the importance of storytelling. Filmmakers still spend over 50% of their budgets on star power and 35% on marketing, leaving little or nothing for research and story development. Besides, entertainment options are multiplying by the day, so showtime on the Big Screen is only getting tougher.

BHAWANI MANDIR REVISITED: SRI AUROBINDO & SWARAJ

MAKARAND R PARANJAPE

Professor of English at JNU

The unique conjuncture of Sri Aurobindo's 150th birth anniversary and the 75th year of India's independence affords us an exceptional opportunity to examine where we are headed as a nation.

On January 24, 1908, almost two years before Gandhi wrote his seminal treatise Hind Swaraj on his way back from England to South Africa aboard S.S. Kildonan Castle, Sri Aurobindo made a speech in Nashik, Maharashtra. It is not one of his famous or well-known orations because it is not available in its original English. It was translated into Marathi and published the following morning in a Marathi paper, Nasik Vritta. In fact, we know about it only because of a colonial intelligence report.

Sri Aurobindo elaborates on the meaning of 'Swaraj' in this speech: 'If we do not acquaint ourselves with the object in view, viz., Swaraj, I am afraid we, thirty crores of people, will become extinct.... Swaraj is life, it is nectar and salvation. Swaraj in a nation is the breath of life. Without the breath of life, a man is dead. So also, without Swaraj, a nation is dead. Swaraj being the life of a nation, it is essential for it.' Notice how the word 'nectar' or 'amrit' is used for Swaraj, presaging the Modi sarkar's slogan of today.

But the roots of Sri Aurobindo's experiments and ideas for freeing India go back much farther, even to his days as a Cambridge undergraduate. In 1905, while still in the Maharaja of Baroda's service, he received an intriguing message from 'Sri Ramakrishna' in a séance, with his younger brother Barindara serving as a medium. It consisted of only two words: Mandir Gado!—raise a temple! Sri Aurobindo interpreted it as a commandment to propagate a new revolutionary creed based on the consecration of a temple to Mother India.

This would not be a physical temple so much as a nation-wide invocation of Mother India as Bharat Shakti in a number of revolutionary cells spread across the country. To elaborate on this plan, Sri Aurobindo wrote a small but extraordinary manifesto, Bhawani Mandir. A copy of this pamphlet was submitted as evidence in the Alipur Bomb case in 1908, with Barindra's signature on the cover, and police markings all over.

Sri Aurobindo starts with a startling assertion, 'WE IN INDIA FAIL IN ALL THINGS FOR WANT OF SHAKTI' (caps. in original). He explains: 'We have all things else, but we are empty of strength, void of energy. We have abandoned Shakti and are therefore abandoned by Shakti.' The consequences of such weakness are disastrous as the heading of another section avers: 'OUR KNOWLEDGE IS A DEAD THING FOR WANT OF SHAKTI'.

Why? Because it lacks strength; it is 'a dead knowledge, a burden under which we are bowed, a poison which is corroding us rather than as it should be a staff to support our feet, and a weapon in our hands'. His reason is simple, 'Our knowledge then, weighed down with a heavy load of tamas, lies under the curse of impotence and inertia.' How true this is of today's India!

If India has been a knowledge society for millennia, we are also not lacking in 'Bhakti' or devotion. But again, 'OUR BHAKTI CANNOT LIVE AND WORK FOR WANT OF SHAKTI' (ibid 82). Without strength, even devotion is useless: 'in the absence of Shakti we cannot concentrate, we cannot direct, we cannot even preserve it.' Sri Aurobindo believes that India must be reborn to manifest its strength and genius: 'No man or nation need be weak unless he chooses, no man or nation need perish unless he deliberately chooses extinction.'

The cultivation and exaltation of strength as the crying want of Indians is Sri Aurobindo's motto in Bhawani Mandir, an idea that hearkens back to Swami Vivekananda's injunction 'Strength and manliness are virtue; weakness and cowardice are sin' or 'This is a great fact: strength is life; weakness is death.'

In his Bengali writings in Dharma, published in October 1909, Aurobindo elaborated his idea of Swaraj or full political independence, rather than Dominion Status within the British empire: 'Aryan Rishis used to designate the practical and spiritual freedom and its fruit, the inviolable Ananda, as 'Swarajya', self-empire. Political freedom is but a limb of Swarajya, self-empire.... As long as there is an alien government or ruler, no nation can be called a free nation possessing self-empire.'

For Sri Aurobindo, freedom was the law of the soul: 'For all people, subjection is a messenger and servitor of death. Only freedom can protect life and make any progress possible.' The nation would die out of 'weakness and sterility' as long as the foreigner was in occupation of our country. 'Therefore, if any nation loses its freedom by its own fault, an untruncated and full independence should be its first aim and political ideal.' He said this long before Congress adopted 'Purna Swaraj' or full independence as its stated policy on December 19, 1929, in its Lahore session.

Picture of Sri Aurobindo Ghose published in the weekly Bande Mataram magazine in 1907, which he was editing

While Sri Aurobindo was at the forefront of the national struggle for only a brief period of five years, 1905–1910, his actual contribution was much larger. This sense of historical destiny is evident in his All India Radio Independence-eve broadcast: 'August 15th is the birthday of free India.... To me personally, it must naturally be gratifying that this date which was notable only for me because it was my own birthday celebrated annually by those who have accepted my gospel of life, should have acquired this vast significance.'

This self-confidence in shaping India's destiny is reflected in a realisation he had much earlier when he explained his 'three madnesses' to his young wife in a letter dated August 30, 1905:

'While others look upon their country as an inert piece of matter—a few meadows and fields, forests and hills and rivers—I look upon Her as the Mother. What would a son do if a demon sat on his mother's breast and started sucking her blood? Would he quietly sit down to his dinner, amuse himself with his wife and children, or would he rush out to deliver his mother? I know I have the strength to deliver this fallen race. It is not physical strength—I am not going to fight with a sword or gun—but it is the strength of knowledge. This feeling is not new in me, it is not of today. I was born with it, it is in my very marrow.'

The first part of the passage, the duty of a son when a demon is drinking his mother's life-blood, is also the theme of Aurobindo's only Sanskrit poem, Bhavani Bharati. But what is striking is the unmistakable sense of a special mission to 'deliver this fallen race' by the special knowledge that he has, authorised by the Divine: 'God sent me to earth to accomplish this great mission.'

During his incarceration in Alipur jail in 1908–1909, the conviction of India's special role in world affairs is also renewed: 'When it is said that India shall expand and extend herself, it is the Sanatan Dharma that shall expand and extend itself over the world. It is for the Dharma and by the Dharma that India exists.'

But what is 'Sanatan Dharma'? Sri Aurobindo explains this in terms that are quite unambiguous: 'That which we call the Hindu religion is really the eternal religion because it is the universal religion which embraces all others. If a religion is not universal, it cannot be eternal. A narrow religion, a sectarian religion, an exclusive religion can live only for a limited time and a limited purpose. This is the one religion that can triumph over materialism by including and anticipating the discoveries of science and the speculations of philosophy.'

Before he ends, Sri Aurobindo offers this resounding summation of his theory of nationalism in the 'Uttarpara Speech': 'I say no longer that nationalism is a creed, a religion, a faith; I say that it is the Sanatan Dharma which for us is nationalism. This Hindu nation was born with the Sanatan Dharma, with it, it moves and with it, it grows. When the Sanatan Dharma declines, then the nation declines, and if the Sanatan Dharma were capable of perishing, with the Sanatan Dharma it would perish.'

'The Sanatan Dharma that is nationalism'—this might sum up Sri Aurobindo's credo of what we might term spiritual nationalism. Or still better, the nation of the spirit. Different from ethnic or civic nationalism, or even cultural nationalism based on language, region, religion, or ways of life and cultural practices, Sri Aurobindo's nation of the spirit is about humankind's march to higher consciousness. In this manifest evolutionary destiny of the species, past and present forms of nationalism are fated to prove inadequate.

Revisiting Sri Aurobindo's idea of Swaraj suggests to us that we are a Sanatani nation with a secular constitution, that 'Sanatana Dharma' cannot be narrow and exclusionary, that the remnants of dead or encrusted knowledge of yesteryears will not suffice to make us a great civilisation again, and that patriotism or devotion to the nation cannot substitute a consistent quest for truth and understanding; and, finally, that new creation requires a new consciousness which cannot spring only from the past. For, as Sri Aurobindo famously said in Essays on the Gita, 'We do not belong to the past dawns, but to the noons of the future.'

WEEKLY NEWSREEL

With Independence Day, India's peaceful change is almost complete. The Constituent Assembly has confirmed the transfer of power and the provincial government has been formally installed. These significant changes at Delhi make the beginning at Karachi rather hopeful and faith in communal harmony is reviving again. It is only the boundary commission's award that is yet to come. The new other Constituent Assembly has begun work in a brisk manner and formal inauguration by Earl Mountbatten confirms its legal status in Pakistan. The dominion status into which India and Pakistan have advanced entails some changes elsewhere. The question of separate representation for Pakistan in UN has arisen. India is supporting Pakistan's application. The more urgent questions about food and other shortages are to be dealt with but India's statesmen have mentioned their other responsibilities in order to show that national discipline is more than ever important. Gandhi's peace mission is now limited to Calcutta where the outlook is not quite promising. Gandhi's resolve to conquer the situation by asking the Hindus to accept all the consequences of partition is, however, more important since Suhrawardy has asked for his assistance. If the mission is successful the situation in East Bengal might change quickly for the better. Sikh leaders... are trying to make the minority see reason. The imposition of military administration has proved no solution; it is really for the West Punjab Ministry to overcome trouble by giving an assurance to the Sikhs...

During the last week, the wavering states including Travancore have signed the Instrument of Accession, confirming the standstill agreement and recognizing the Union government's authority in regard to defence, external affairs and communications. Indore has also taken the opportunity to join the Union and it may be said that the only dissentient is Hyderabad. The Nizam's decision to stand out and make Hyderabad neutral for reasons given in letters exchanged has certainly created misgivings. The State Congress is quite clear about its own end—responsible government, and even the promise of reforms to come soon has not affected the clamour for getting Hyderabad to enter the Union. The Hyderabad government's anxiety to keep up relations with Britain as with the new Dominions may cause debate as to the State's future. While the Prime Minister of the state has not resigned the British legal advisor has laid down office. In Kashmir Pandit Kak has been succeeded by a General who evidently wants to relate popular wishes to the position of Kashmir in the future. The addition of Junagadh to Pakistan breaks up the unity of Kathiawar and has forced the Prajamandal to take notice of the breach of the rule of propinquity by the Nawab. Reforms in Cochin lead to the extensions of the ministry and the beginning of full responsible government.

The financial arrangements within India will rest largely on the decision of the special tribunal dealing with partition of assets and liabilities. But the hope of continuity including cheap money is supported by a decision relating to repayment of the 3-1|2 per cent 1947–50 loan at the first opportunity. The food problem at Madras has been reviewed and recommendations regarding controls have been made afresh. The inception of new governments, saddled with responsibilities, does not make one forget the tasks facing the legislature next month. But the amnesty, including the Communists on trial must create goodwill and the call to pull out of the present crisis by fresh effort may be trusted to work well.

Blot on independence

The terrible incident where a nine-year-old Dalit boy was beaten to death by his teacher for touching a drinking water pot—it is the most shameful thing that India has seen amid its Independence Day celebrations and in the aftermath. A teacher is supposed to be a positive light—a social reformer like Raja Ram Mohan Roy. Although the teacher has been arrested, the worry is about how rampant such events are across our country.

Mahanadi flood

Amid the Odisha government's prediction of a moderate flood in the Mahanadi due to heavy rains and other reasons, the situation is dire for the state's coastal districts. The flood, which is also due to the release of water from 34 gates of Hirakud dam, puts the life of the common man in complete jeopardy. The need of the hour is a proper water management system between Odisha and its neighbour Chhattisgarh. A high-level meeting between the two to discuss possible measures to alleviate the adverse impact of the flood will surely go a long way.

All the world's a stage

We are living in a rather tumultuous world today—Ukraine is attacking Crimea, which has for long been under Russia's control, and China has its eyes on Taiwan more so after Pelosi's visit. But the USA has been alternatively lending its support to one side or the other to fulfill its self-interests. In this crises-plagued atmosphere, India needs to act with diplomacy and maturity.

India-Afghanistan ties

Apropos of the editorial Afghan blackhole stays that way (August 16). As has been rightly reiterated, though the Taliban rule is not acceptable, the people in that country must not be left high and dry. India has done well by standing in solidarity with the country that it shares centuries-old ties with. It is good that India plans to provide humanitarian and medical assistance to the people of Afghanistan.

'Judges can best handle adoption'

District magistrates need to be given training to give decisions on adoption, says panel

PREETHA NAIR @New Delhi

IT is not appropriate for an administrative authority, instead of a judicial body, to issue adoption orders, a Parliamentary panel has noted.

The Standing Committee's views are at variance with the Juvenile Justice Amendment Act, 2021, which was amended to empower district magistrates (DMs) to issue adoption orders. Before this, the power to issue adoption orders was vested in the judiciary.

It was in July last year that the Parliament passed the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Amendment Bill, 2021. The amendment also entrusts the DM to ensure that childcare institutions comply with the provisions of the Act.

However, the Standing Committee, which tabled its recommendations recently on 'Guardianship and Adoption Laws' felt that judges have competence and experience to determine whether adoption is in the best interest of the child.

The panel, headed by BJP leader Sushil Kumar Modi, said since the new system is yet to be tried and tested, the Committee recommends that training should be imparted to DMs, ADMs and divisional commissioners in this regard. It also told the Ministry of Women and Child Development to review the functioning of the new system and present a report to the Committee.

The Standing Committee on Personnel, Public Grievances and Law and Justice, also noted that while deciding on adoption, courts ensure that necessary procedures have been complied with. It has the power to conduct an inquiry of the child and adoptive parents.

The Union government's move to hand over the responsibility to DMs has invited criticism from groups working for children's welfare.

"It's concerning the manner in which the amendment was pushed through to hand over power from the judiciary to the executive. DMs are not equipped enough to decide whether the child should be given for adoption," she said.

Senior lawyer Neela Gokhale said under Juvenile Justice Act too, adoption cases are heard by either a district court, family court or a city civil court.

"If there is a breakdown in the family where the child has been adopted, the child has to be rehabilitated. These processes are enforced by the court," Gokhale said, adding that the government should increase the number of family courts.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF PARLIAMENTARY PANEL

- The new legislation should cover LGBTQ community
- New Legislation should avoid using the term 'illegitimate' and adoption law should be same for all children whether born within or out of wedlock.
- There is a need to bring out a uniform and comprehensive legislation that is more transparent, accountable, verifiable, less bureaucratic and applicable to all irrespective of religion
- It is important to prevent illegal and informal adoptions so that a larger pool of children is available for placing them in adoption with families registering under JJ Act
- Monthly meeting chaired by the DM should be held in every district to ensure that orphan and abandoned children are produced before Child Welfare Committee and made available for adoption at the earliest

WHERE ARE WE: 75 YEARS AFTER INDEPENDENCE?

PROF ADITYA MUKHERJEE
Taught contemporary history at JNU for over four decades

IT is 75 years since India attained independence from the mighty British empire on which the sun was to never set. One of the most important events of the twentieth century, it set the stage for the dissolution of formal empires in most parts of the world. A good moment, then, to reflect on the extent to which the Indian nation-state has lived up to the vision of the nearly century-long Indian national movement, perhaps the greatest mass movement in world history, which gave birth to it and instilled its spirit into the new Constitution.

The core ideas behind the vision of the Indian national movement, which in a coalesced form has been called the Idea of India, were: Independent India would be a) sovereign, b) democratic, c) secular, d) have a pro-poor orientation and e) would be based on reason and tarka (argument) rather than blind faith and obscurantism. There was a consensus on these among the entire spectrum of nationalists, whatever their other differences may have been, from Moderates like Dadabhai Naoroji, MG Ranade, GK Gokhale to Lokmanya Tilak, CR Das, Bhagat Singh, Mahatma Gandhi, Jawaharlal Nehru, Maulana Azad, Subhash Bose as well as Socialists and Communists like Jaiprakash Narayan, Acharya Narendra Dev, PC Joshi and Muzaffar Ahmed. Only those outside this nationalist spectrum—whether stakeholders in the Empire or other loyalists wedded to partisan ideas—did not share this Idea of India. Set your search filter to those who had difficulty accepting the Indian Constitution and the national flag.

In recent years, governmental power at the Centre and in many states has gone into the hands of those who follow the precepts of the Right, which had remained outside the spectrum of the national movement. Consequently, the core components of the Idea of India are being challenged—often in ways that actively seek to cloud the conceptual turf. It may be in order, therefore, to clarify what those components were, and how they came to be distilled through India's struggle against Empire.

First, democracy as an idea evolves as an antonym to colonial bondage. Thus, it necessarily means civil liberties and freedom of the press. From Raja Ram Mohan Roy in 1824 to Surendranath Bannerjee in the 1880s, Tilak in the 1890s to Gandhiji in the 1920s, all asserted this unequivocally. The last three were jailed for doing so, with Tilak and Gandhi being charged with sedition under section 124A of the IPC, the infamous colonial law introduced in 1870 to curb precisely those freedoms.

Gandhiji, shortly before he was arrested and jailed in 1922 under the above section, asserted the seminal importance of civil liberties and a free press. He said: "We must make good the right of free speech and free association before we make any further progress towards our goal. To accept defeat in the matter of free speech and free association is to court disaster. We must defend these elementary rights with our lives." He defined those in terms that may seem radical today! "Liberty of speech means it is unassailed even when the speech hurts; liberty of the press can be said to be truly respected only when the press can comment on the severest terms upon, and even misrepresent, matters; and freedom of association is truly respected when assemblies of people can discuss even revolutionary projects." Using simple put powerful imagery, he later reiterated how non-negotiable these freedoms were: "Civil liberty, consistent with the observance of non-violence, is the breath of political and social life. It is the foundation of freedom. There is no room there for dilution or compromise. It is the water of life. I have never heard of water being diluted."

As a corollary, democracy also meant dialogue, dissent, respect for the opposition. Nehru was to repeatedly underline this and led by example by practising it. In 1950, at the peak of his popularity, when he could have smothered any opposition easily, he declared: "I am not afraid of the opposition in this country and I do not mind if opposition groups grow. I do not want India to be a country in which millions of people say yes to one man, I want a strong opposition." Rather presciently, he also said: "This is too large a country with too many legitimate diversities to permit any so-called strong man to trample over people and their ideas."

Now, the second critical element of the idea of India: secularism. The nationalists saw democracy and secularism as intertwined phenomena; you could not have one without the other. Hence the term secular-democracy was often used together; they were seen as conjoined, just as communalism was with loyalism. For them, diversity, whether linguistic, ethnic or religious, was not to be seen as a problem but was something to be celebrated. Again, as proof that you cannot assassinate ideas, let's hark back to Gandhi's words from 1942, separated into a series of aphorisms for emphasis:

"...Hindustan belongs to all those who are born and bred here and who have no other country to look to. Therefore it belongs to Parsis, Beni Israels, to Indian Christians, Muslims and other non-Hindus as much to Hindus."

"Free India will be no Hindu raj, it will be Indian raj, based not on the majority of any religious sect or community but on the representatives of the whole people without distinction of religion...."

"Religion is a personal matter which should have no place in politics. It is in the unnatural condition of foreign domination that we have unnatural divisions according to religion...."

"There is no force in the cry of driving out the English if the substitute is to be Hindu or any other domination. That will be no swaraj."

There is a reason why the world is no longer accepting India as a full democracy and is, instead, being variously describing as a "partially free democracy", a "flawed democracy" and even as an "electoral autocracy". Whether or not you agree with the appellations, it is not disputed by any side that India is witnessing a sort of democratic backsliding. Indeed, those who champion the new ethos openly articulate their consensus on this—in an affirmative way, as if it was a desirable outcome. And those who have seen only this India do not quite realise that the idea of a Hindu rashtra was unthinkable even a few decades ago—it was rejected by the thought leaders of our freedom movement precisely because it would be a mirror image of Muslim Pakistan. We need no other example to see why a theocratic state defined by anti-minorityism on the streets and on the statute books is the very opposite of a vehicle of freedom.

MULTILATERALISM

UN may lose relevance in absence of reforms: Rajnath

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

STRESSING on a reform of United Nations' structure, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh on Tuesday pointed to "infirmities within the multilateral system" of the UN and said it may lead to loss of its relevance.

The UN has given us a platform for global progress in a number of areas, but there is a crisis of confidence today in the UN system, Rajnath said, while addressing the plenary session through video of the Moscow Conference on International Security. The session was organised on the topic, 'International Security in the condition of Multilateralism'.

"While the UN has addressed most of these issues somewhat partially and intermittently, our collective effort has nonetheless fallen short in providing effective and enduring solutions, particularly due to the infirmities within the multilateral system" Rajnath added.

It can deliver effective solutions only if it gives a voice to the entire world rather than zealously guarding the status quo, he said. "This worrying shortcoming of the UN system is manifestation of its structural inadequacy. Without comprehensive reforms of UN structure and without democratisation in decision-making, the UN might progressively lose its effectiveness and relevance." Rajnath said.

He stressed that the UN must be made more representative of developing countries "if it is to continue to engender trust in its ability to provide leadership to the entire world".

Talaq-e-Hasan not akin to triple talaq: Supreme Court

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Thursday said the practice of Talaq-e-Hasan among the followers of Islam is not akin to triple talaq, and the women also have an option of 'khula'.

A bench of Justices Sanjay Kishan Kaul and MM Sundresh said the case challenging the practice should not be used to further any agenda. Talaq-e-Hasan is the practice by which a Muslim man can divorce his wife by saying the word 'talaq' once a month, for three months.

However, if cohabitation resumes after the first or second utterance of talaq, the couple is assumed to have reconciled and the previous utterances are deemed invalid.

A woman can part ways with her husband through 'khula'. The bench said if the husband and wife could not live together, it can also grant divorce on the ground of breakdown under Article 142 of the Constitution.

The court was hearing a plea seeking to declare 'Talaq-e-Hasan' and all other forms of 'unilateral extra-judicial talaq' as unconstitutional' claiming they were 'arbitrary, irrational, and violated fundamental rights'.

"This is not triple talaq in that sense. Marriage being contractual in nature, you also have an option of khula. If two people cannot live together, we are also granting divorce on grounds of irretrievable breakdown of marriage. Are you open to divorce by mutual consent if 'mehar' (gift given in cash or kind by groom to bride) is taken care of? Prima facie, I don't agree with petitioners. I don't want this to become an agenda for any other reason," the bench observed.

Senior advocate Pinky Anand, appearing for the petitioner Benazeer Heena, said while the SC has held triple talaq unconstitutional, it left the Talaq-E-Hasan issue undecided.

The court also told the petitioner that dissolution of marriage is also possible without the intervention of this court through 'mubarat' and asked her counsel to seek instructions.

The apex court will now hear the matter on Aug. 29. The petition, filed by Ghaziabad resident Heena, who claimed to be a victim of Talaq-E-Hasan, also sought a direction to the Centre to frame guidelines for neutral and uniform grounds of divorce and procedure for all citizens.

China snubs SL politician who lobbied for spy ship to dock

YESHI SELI @New Delhi

WHEN Chinese surveillance ship Yuan Wang 5 docked at Sri Lanka's Hambantota port on Tuesday after a lag following Indian objections, its Captain Zhang Hongwang snubbed Sarath Weerasekera, former Rear Admiral of the Sri Lankan Navy who is now a politician, by refusing to shake hands with him or let him inside the ship.

Ironically, Weerasekera was the one who was instrumental in getting approval for the ship's docking after Sri Lanka had asked China to delay its arrival. Colombo has allowed it to stay at the port till August 22.

"While the Chinese say they were following Covid protocols, the fact is that basic courtesy was denied to a person who helped them dock at Hambantota," sources said.

Weerasekera was also amongst the first to announce that permission had been granted to China to dock the ship a few days ago, for which he received a lot of flak.

But the Yuan Wang 5 is used for tracking and support of satellite and intercontinental ballistic missiles. "It is not a survey ship; as a politician he should have checked his facts before getting them permission to dock," said sources.

A day before Yuan Wang 5 docked, India gifted a Dornier 228 to Sri Lanka. This aircraft is used for maritime surveillance and will be maintained by India for some time.

NEP 2020: Centre seeks public inputs for preparation of new curriculum

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

Students take out a Tiranga Yatra in Moradabad on Tuesday | PTI

UNION Education Minister Dharmendra Pradhan on Tuesday urged people to participate in a survey to prepare a curriculum for "new India".

"Development of a vibrant, dynamic, inclusive and futuristic National Curriculum Framework is essential for integrating cultural-rootedness along with global outlook, freeing education from a colonial hangover and instilling a deeper sense of pride in our next generations," he said in a tweet. "I appeal to all citizens to participate in the Citizen Survey for NCF for developing #NayeBharatKaNayaCurriculum. A dynamic National Curriculum Framework in line with the NEP 2020 will play a major role in achieving the goal of Viksit Bharat," he added.

The ministry has invited suggestions from the public through an online public consultation survey for the formulation of the National Curriculum Framework and subsequent design of syllabus, textbooks and other instructional material.

The National Education Policy 2020, announced on July 29 2020, recommends quality improvement of the education system through the development of a National Curriculum Framework (NCF).

The process of formulating the NCF has been started through the constitution of district consultation committees, state and national focus groups, and steering committees, etc. A website and mobile app have also been developed for the purpose.

Using the bottom-up approach, consultations, mobile app-based surveys, and consultations have been conducted by the states and Union territories to reach out to the stakeholders like parents, Anganwadi workers, teachers, and students, etc. at the grassroots level, to collect their views about the future of school education, early childhood care, and adult education.

Anybody who has an interest in school and teacher education can participate in the online survey being conducted in 23 languages.

Vikar new J&K Cong president; Azad to head campaign committee

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

WITH an eye on the Assembly elections, the Congress on Tuesday appointed former minister Vikar Rasool Wani as the new president of Jammu and Kashmir Pradesh Congress Committee (JKPCC). Veteran leader and former chief minister Ghulam Nabi Azad will be heading the 11-member Campaign Committee.

According to a statement released by Congress General Secretary K V Venugopal, party president Sonia Gandhi has appointed senior party leader Vikar Rasool Wani as the new J&K Congress chief. She has also accepted the resignation of outgoing J&K Congress chie,f Ghulam Ahmed Mir, who had resigned from the post on July 7.

Vikar, who hails from Banihal area of Ramban district of Jammu province, is close to Ghulam Nabi Azad.

Vikar was a frontrunner among the six candidates, shortlisted for the J&K Congress chief's post by party leaders last month.

Senior party leader and former minister Raman Bhalla will continue to be the working president of the party.

Ghulam Nabi Azad, the former Leader of Opposition (LoP) in Rajya Sabha and a member of the Congress dissidents' group, G-23, was appointed as the head of the 11-member campaign committee.

As the head of the campaign committee, Azad will lead the party in the first-ever Assembly polls in Jammu and Kashmir. The polls are likely to be held next year.

During interactions with the party leaders in New Delhi last month, all Jammu and Kashmir Congress leaders had unanimously demanded that Azad should lead the poll campaign in J&K as he is popular among people in both the regions, Jammu and Kashmir.

In fact, J&K Congress leaders have been stressing on nominating Azad as the party's chief ministerial candidate.

The Congress also restructured the Political Affairs Committee (PAC) of J&K Congress and appointed Tariq Hameed Karra as its chairman. In the nine-member PAC committee headed by Karra, Azad will also be a member. Karra was the founding member of PDP and he quit the party in 2016 during agitation triggered by Hizb commander Burhan Wani's killing and joined Congress in February 2017.

Rajnath hands over indigenous systems to Army

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

DEFENCE Minister Rajnath Singh on Tuesday handed over indigenous equipment and systems to the Army, including Landing Craft Attack for Pangong Tso Lake and Infantry Vehicle that will help the soldiers in quick mobilization at high altitude in Eastern Ladakh.

The equipment also included Future Infantry Soldier as a System, new generation anti-personnel mine 'Nipun', rugged and automatic communication system, upgraded sights system for tanks and advanced thermal imagers.

State-of-the art high mobility Infantry Protected Vehicles and Assault Boats were virtually handed over by Rajnath.

"It is a shining example of the country's growing self-reliance prowess, in partnership with the private sector and other institutions," he said.

Nitish keeps home, but bows to most RJD demands

Lalu Yadav's party gets 16 ministerial berths, including education, JD(U) 11, Congress 2 in cabinet expansion of Mahagathbandhan govt

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

A week after dumping the NDA, CM Nitish Kumar bowed to the wishes of his 'new-old' ally Tejashwi Yadav while expanding his state cabinet on Tuesday.

Although Nitish kept the home portfolio amid speculation that the RJD was reportedly insisting on it, the RJD cornered the lion's share with 16 ministers, including the education department, previously held by senior JD-U minister Vijay Kumar Choudhary.

RJD's Prof Chandrashekhar has replaced Choudhary, who now heads the finance department.

Deputy CM Tejashwi Yadav will be holding four portfolios — health, road construction – which he had held earlier — urban development and housing & rural works.

His elder brother Tej Pratap Yadav heads the environment, forest and climate change portfolio. Tej Pratap was health minister in the previous Grand Alliance government.

In all, 31 ministers including 16 from RJD, 11 from JD-U, two from Congress, one from former CM Jitan Ram Manjhi-led Hindustani Awam Morcha (HAM) and an Independent were administered oath of office by Governor Phagu Chauhan on Tuesday.

The RJD has given adequate representation to the Yadav and Muslims as these two communities, famously known as 'MY' vote bank, form the party's support base. The party's six ministers are from the Yadav community while three are Muslims.

Tejashwi's emphasis on making the RJD an 'A to Z' party was also reflected in the cabinet expansion as he inducted upper caste Bhumihar leader Kartikeya Singh in the cabinet despite opposition from an ally.

The Mithilanchal region, where BJP's performance in the 2020 assembly elections was impressive, has drawn four ministers, two each from RJD and JD-U. Altogether, 10 new ministers are from the region alone, followed by seven from Bhojpur-Shahabad, four from Magadh, three from Seemanchal and two each from Kosi and Ang (Bhagalpur) regions.

The RJD has also got the industry department with Samir Kumar Mahaseth heading it. The department has the potential to create employment opportunities as underlined by Nitish a day before the Independence Day. The CM announced 10 lakh government jobs and promised creating an equal number of opportunities.

The Bihar cabinet can have up to 36 ministers, including the Chief Minister. Some ministerial berths were kept vacant for a future cabinet expansion, sources said.

The new government is likely to prove its majority in the assembly on August 24. CM Nitish claims support of 164 MLAs in the 243-member assembly.

Meanwhile, former deputy CM and BJP MP Sushil Kumar Modi has alleged that leaders with criminal antecedents had been inducted into the state cabinet. "No care has been taken to keep a social balance while expanding the cabinet as some castes have not been given representation," he said.

Thought Nitish will gracefully exit poll politics by 2025: Sushil Modi

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

ADMITTING that the BJP failed to gauge Nitish Kumar's plans, former deputy chief Minister Sushil Kumar Modi said that the party was under the impression that the JD (U) chief would make a graceful exit from electoral politics by 2025, but he had different plans.

Modi said that Nitish wanted to give a shot at his national ambitions. "We thought that Nitish will opt out of electoral politics by 2025 as he will be 75 years old by then. We didn't know that he would snap ties to explore greener pastures in the Opposition camp," said Modi.

Last week, Nitish was sworn in as Bihar CM for the eighth time after forming Mahagathbandan with the RJD and other alliance partners.

Modi also reiterated that Nitish's closest confidante had approached a Central minister with a proposal to make him Vice-President a month ago. Nitish, however, termed the claim as "bogus". "It's natural that he won't accept that he wanted V-P post. I abide by what I said," Modi said.

Rubbishing the allegations that the BJP was trying to execute a 'Maharashtra model' through former JD(U) leader RCP Singh, the Rajya Sabha MP said that it is unfair to compare both states. "The Shiv Sena was not an alliance partner of the BJP and it was Eknath Shinde and other MLAs who walked out because they were feeling suffocated in the government. The JD-U was our alliance partner and we adhered to the alliance dharma," he said. Prime Minister Modi also dismissed the JD(U) s claims that the BJP appointed RCP Singh as Union minister without Nitish's consent. "It was Nitish's discretion to name the Union minister. Now after a year, he's saying that the BJP is trying to split the party through Singh," he said.

'Alliance won't go beyond 2024'

WILL THE GRAND ALLIANCE LAST?
It won't last beyond 2024 because there is an inherent mistrust between RJD and JD (U). Lalu Yadav never trusted Nitish. Both parties will be now looking to break each other.

SO IS IT GOING TO BE LALU VS NITISH?
In our alliance, we never interfered in any transfer or postings. Lalu Yadav wants an upper hand in everything.

DID THE ALLIANCE WITH BJP FAIL BECAUSE YOU WEREN'T AROUND, AS CLAIMED BY NITISH KUMAR?
Not a single person is indispensable in the BJP. It's not fair to make such claims. Union ministers Dharmendra Pradhan and Amit Shah had met him in Patna a couple of times to sort out issues.

WHY DID HE WALK OUT THEN?
Though Nitish was upset over the V-P post, the main reason for his exit was his national aspirations.

DO YOU THINK THE BACKWARD COMMUNITIES WILL SUPPORT BJP NOW?
PM Modi commands more popularity than Nitish across communities. Nitish doesn't have support even in his home turf Nalanda.

Bihar BJP to turn aggressive against govt

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @New Delhi

HOURS after the Bihar cabinet expansion, Bhartiya Janata Party (BJP) decided to take more "aggressive and exposing ways" against the Grand Alliance government led by Nitish Kumar and go with a wider issue-based outreach drive to the people of the state. The decision was taken at a meeting of the Bihar BJP Core Committee on Tuesday. The party also discussed the future course of actions and electoral strategies for upcoming 2024 elections.

The BJP central leadership widely discussed the plans on the ways for the rejuvenation of National Democrcatic Alliance (NDA) with other like-minded smaller parties ahead of the 2024 LS elections, sources said. Attending the meeting, Home Minister Amit Shah suggested ways to bring the like-minded parties into NDA. He also discussed how to work to ensure victory in the LS elections on maximum seats out of total 40 LS seats.

The selections of new party's state president in Bihar and the leader of opposition in the assembly and legislative council were also discussed minutely in the presence of Home minister Amit Shah and national president JP Nadda.

Parties leverage patriotism this I-Day

With Uttar Pradesh all soaked in the spirit of patriotism on 75th Independence Day, participation of political parties in different events not only made for good optics but also helped them connect with the masses through patriotic plank. Samajwadi Party (SP), Congress, BSP and Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) in the state got involved either in some campaign of their own with patriotic overtones or extended support to initiatives of the ruling dispensation. While SP countered BJP's high-voltage Har Ghar Tiranga campaign, by tasking its cadres to hoist flag at every home across the state, Congress embarked on "Bharat Jodo Campaign" to tell the people about sacrifices of freedom fighters.

Har Mandir Tiranga in state's temple towns

The saints in Ayodhya came up with the "Har Mandir Tiranga" on cue from "Har Ghar Tiranga" campaign to mark 75 years of Independence. Besides, Ayodhya, saints in the temple towns of Varanasi and Mathura also celebrated 75 years of Independence by unfurling the tricolour at their respective temples. Around 8,000 temples in Ayodhya hoisted the national flag. Around 20,000 sadhus living in temples across Ayodhya took part with the Hanuman Garhi temple taking the lead. In Varanasi too, maths and temples are unfurling the tricolour. In Mathura, the Dwarkadeesh temple celebrated Tiranga Mahotsav on August 14.

Rare honour for Varanasi cop

Bringing laurels to UP state police department, Suraj Tiwari, a sub-inspector posted with the Nati Imli Chowki, Police Commissionerate, Varanasi, got the rare commendation in the form of Union Home Minister's Medal of Excellence in Investigation for 2022. Suraj Tiwari played a pivotal role in busting the NEET solver gang from last year, resulting in the arrest of the mastermind Neelesh alias PK and 15 others. The 2015-batch police officer busted the interstate gang which had operations across UP, Bihar, Karnataka, Rajasthan and Tripura. The gang had promised aspiring doctors an assured medical seat for a sum of ` 20 lakh.

Kashmiri Pandit shot dead, bro hurt in Valley

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

IN yet another targeted attack, terrorists on Tuesday shot dead a Kashmiri Pandit and injured his brother in Shopian district of J&K. After the latest incident, an influential Pandit group urged all Pandits to leave the Valley.

A police official said terrorists fired on two Pandit brothers Sunil Kumar and Pritambhar Kumar a.k.a Pintu in an apple orchard in Chotipora area of Shopian in south Kashmir. Both sustained multiple bullet injuries and were taken to a nearby hospital, where Sunil was declared brought dead.

The injured Pintu was taken to the army hospital in Srinagar for treatment. Families of both the brothers had not migrated from Valley despite the eruption of militancy in 1989.

This was the second targeted killing of a Pandit in the last three months in the Valley. A pall of gloom descended on the family when the body of Sunil was brought home. Besides the family members, their local Muslim neighbours mourned the death.

Mourners at the house of Sunil Kumar on Tuesday | ZAHOOR PUNJABI

Kashmir Pandit Sangarsh Samiti (KPSS) president Sanjay Tickoo said terrorists have made it clear that they are going to kill all Pandits in the Valley. He appealed to them to leave Kashmir for their own safety.

"Pained beyond words on despicable terror attack," Lt Governor Manoj Sinha said.

7 ITBP jawans killed as bus falls into gorge

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

AT least seven Indo-Tibetan Border Police (ITBP) personnel were killed and 30 others were injured after a bus carrying them fell into a gorge in Pahalgam area of Jammu and Kashmir on Tuesday.

A police official said a bus carrying 37 ITBP personnel, who were returning from yatra duties, skidded off the road and rolled down into a gorge at Zig Morh Frislan, Chandanwari in Pahalgam. It is not known under what circumstances the driver lost control of the vehicle. The road was slippery due to rains when the accident took place. In the accident, seven ITBP jawans were killed and 30 others sustained injuries.

Immediately after the mishap, the police, army, and teams of the SDRF rushed to the spot and launched the rescue operation. Besides, a fleet of ambulances was also rushed to the spot to provide immediate treatment to the injured jawans.

Alwar man lynched by mob on suspicion of tractor theft

RAJESH ASNANI @Jaipur

IN a shocking incident of mob violence in Rajasthan's Alwar district, a group of people have thrashed a man to death on suspicion that he was a thief. The incident revolves around the theft of a tractor and the man who stole the tractor dumped it in a village field and ran away to escape from the mob chasing him. When the mob reached there, they caught hold of a different man who had gone to relieve himself in the same field and beat him so badly that he died in a Jaipur hospital on Monday. Locals and the victim's family are now sitting on dharna and the situation is tense as people in the mob belong to one community while the dead victim belongs to another community. Six accused have been detained by the Alwar police.

Chiranjilal (45), a vegetable vendor in Rambas village of Govindgarh town of Alwar was allegedly beaten to death by 15 to 20 people. He died during treatment on Monday. The angry family members have flatly refused to perform the last rites of the dead body. People protesting against the incident want the state government to provide Rs 50 lakhs as compensation, a job for a family member and early arrest of the accused. In view of the people's anger and fear of communal tension in the village, heavy police force has been deployed in the area.

Chiranji Lal Saini had gone to the field for defecation at the same time when thieves were coming from the Sadar police station area of Alwar after stealing a tractor. A group of cops, a large mob and the tractor owners were chasing the thieves. Seeing themselves surrounded by the police and tractor owners, the thieves, ran away leaving the tractor in a field located near the power house. The angry mob saw Chiranjilal and assuming that he was the thief, began thrashing him due to which he was seriously injured. Hearing his screams, people ran to the field and found Chiranjilal lying dead.

ASSAM MAN BEHEADS 55-YEAR-OLD, SURRENDERS WITH SEVERED HEAD

GUWAHATI: An Assam man beheaded a 55-year-old and then, walked for 25 km in the dead of the night with the decapitated head to surrender at a police station. The incident occurred at Doyalpur under Rangapara police station in northern Assam's Sonitpur district at around 10:30 pm on Monday. Doyalpur is a remote village near the Arunachal Pradesh border. The accused, Suniram Madri (25), was arrested by the police. The victim was identified as Boila Hemram. ENS

Assam launches 'School on Wheels' project for economically weaker kids

PRASANTA MAJUMDER @ Guwahati

THE Assam government has launched a school on wheels project to bring the economically-disadvantaged children under the ambit of conventional education system.

According to official sources, the "Vidya Rath: School on Wheels" envisaged to impart elementary education to such children for 10 months. Subsequently, the sources added, the government will integrate them into the conventional system of education. Under the project, the students will be given free mid-day meals, uniforms and text books.

After launching the project at the Gauhati High Court on the occasion of Independence Day, Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma expressed optimism it would help bring the children from poor families under the ambit of formal education.

The India of our dreams cannot be achieved without the uplift of the socio-economically disadvantaged sections. The project School on Wheels will go a long way in imparting education to the economically-challenged children - Himanta B. Sarma

"The India of our dreams cannot be achieved without the uplift of the socio-economically disadvantaged sections. The project Vidya Rath: School on Wheels will go a long way in imparting education to the economically-challenged children and helping them to empower academically," he said. "Our children are the future of the nation. It is extremely painful to see many of our children, who should be in schools framing the foundations for a bright future, are instead engaged in begging on the streets, at bus stops, railway stations or picking up garbage, bottles," he said.

Sarma expressed concern that many children drop out of schools owing to financial difficulties of their families and take to substance abuse. He said despite the best efforts of central and state governments, a chunk of the children were outside formal education.

8 unfurl Tricolour on 2 European peaks in 24 hrs

ANURAG SINGH @ Bhopal

A group of eight talented mountaineers from various states marked the completion of 75 years of the country's freedom by successfully scaling two peaks, including Europe's highest, the Mount Elbrus – both within 24 hours.

The group successfully scaled Europe's tallest peak, the 5642-meter Mount Elbrus West at 5.30 am on August 15 and just 21 meters lower Mount Elbrus East at 4.23 am on Tuesday.

The mountaineers included 30-year-old ace woman mountaineer from Madhya Pradesh Bhawna Dehariya, Chhattisgarh police's anti-Maoist cell constable Ankita Gupta, besides mountaineers from Haryana, Hyderabad and Uttarakhand. They are Vishwanath Kartikeya Padakanti, Manmohan Rawat, Gulshan Thakur, Pradeep Gehlot, Muriki Pulakita Hasvi and Rina Shetty.

The team has achieved the distinction of being perhaps the first group of mountaineers from India to have successfully scaled the two peaks in Europe within 24 hours.

One of the key members of the group, MP's Bhawna Dehriya, was among the women achievers who was awarded Devi Award by The New Indian Express in Indore in 2020.

Hailing from MP's Chhindwara district, Bhawna's successful scaling of Mount Elbrus meant that she is now just two peaks away from her target of summiting the highest mountain peaks of all seven continents.

Bhawna had earlier successfully scaled the highest peak, Mount Everest, in May 2019, Africa's tallest Mount Kilimanjaro on Diwali in 2019, South America's highest peak Aconcagua in December 2019 and Australia's top peak Mount Kosciuszko on Holi in 2020.

The successful scaling of the twin mountain peaks in Europe was extra special, as it was Bhawna's first mountaineering expedition, 15 months after giving birth to daughter.

Sharing the special experience of summiting the two peaks Bhawna said, "The mission was really tiring, particularly as the mercury dipped between minus 25 and 35 degrees on coming close to both peaks amid strong winds."

Rigorous pre-expedition training turned vital in beating the extreme chill and associated problems, she said.

Blasts rock Crimea ammo depot

Russia blames the explosions in Mayskoye on an 'act of sabotage' without naming anyone

KYIV

EXPLOSIONS and fires ripped through an ammunition depot in Russia-annexed Crimea on Tuesday in the second suspected Ukrainian attack on the peninsula in just over a week, forcing the evacuation of more than 3,000 people.

Russia blamed the blasts in the village of Mayskoye on an 'act of sabotage' without naming the perpetrators.

Separately, the Russian business newspaper Kommersant quoted local residents as saying plumes of black smoke also rose over an air base in Crimea's Gvardeyskoye.

Ukraine stopped short of publicly claiming responsibility for any of the blasts, including those that destroyed nine Russian planes at another Crimean air base last week. Russia seized Crimea from Ukraine in 2014 and has used it to launch attacks against the country.

If Ukrainian forces were, in fact, behind the explosions, they would represent a significant escalation in the war. The Kremlin has demanded that Kyiv recognise Crimea as part of Russia as a condition for ending the fighting, while Ukraine has vowed to drive Moscow's forces from the peninsula on the Black Sea.

Videos posted on social media showed thick columns of smoke rising over raging flames in Mayskoye, and a series of explosions could be heard. The Russian Defense Ministry said the fires damaged a power plant, power lines, railroad tracks and apartment buildings. Crimea's regional leader, Sergei Aksyonov, said two people were injured.

Ukrainian officials warned on Tuesday that Crimea would not be spared the ravages of war. Rather than a travel destination, "Crimea occupied by Russians is about warehouses explosions and high risk of death for invaders and thieves," Ukrainian presidential adviser Mykhailo Podolyak said on Twitter.

Russia blamed last week's explosions on an accidental detonation of munitions, but satellite photos and other evidence—including the dispersed blast sites—pointed to a Ukrainian attack, perhaps with anti-ship missiles, according to military analysts.

A British Defense Ministry intelligence update said vessels in Russia's Black Sea Fleet are in an extremely defensive posture in the waters off Crimea, with ships barely venturing out of sight of the coastline. AP

Putin blames US for trying to prolong conflict

Russian President Vladimir Putin accused Washington on Tuesday of drawing out the war in Ukraine, as explosions rocked a Russian military facility on the Kremlin-controlled peninsula of Crimea. "The situation in Ukraine shows that the US is trying to prolong this conflict," Putin said, addressing the opening ceremony of a security conference in Moscow. Washington is "using the people of Ukraine as cannon fodder", he said, lashing out at the United States for supplying weapons to Ukraine

Australian ex-PM Morrison took on extra powers in secret

CANBERRA

AUSTRALIAN Prime Minister Anthony Albanese on Tuesday accused his predecessor Scott Morrison of trashing democracy after revealing that while Morrison was in power, he took on five ministerial roles without the knowledge of most other lawmakers or the public.

Albanese said Morrison had been operating in secret, keeping the Australian people in the dark and misleading Parliament over who was in charge of what portfolios.

"This has been government by deception," Albanese said.

Adding to revelations first detailed over the weekend by News Corp. media, Albanese said that between March 2020 and May 2021, Morrison was appointed minister of health, finance, home affairs, treasury and industry—moves which appeared to have given Morrison equal powers to the ministers already appointed to those positions.

"It is completely extraordinary that these appointments were kept secret by the Morrison government from the Australian people," Albanese told reporters in Canberra.

Scott Morrison, Former Prime Minster of Australia | AP

Morrison defended taking on the extra portfolios, saying they were a safeguard during the pandemic and that he would have made the appointments public had he needed to use the powers involved.

"Sometimes we forget what was happening two years ago and the situation we were dealing with. It was an unconventional time and an unprecedented time," Morrison said.

He pointed to the coronavirus hospitalisation of the then-British prime minister. "Boris Johnson almost died one night," Morrison said. "We had ministers go down with Covid."

Morrison used his additional powers on at least one occasion, to overturn a decision by former minister Keith Pitt to approve a contentious gas project off the New South Wales coast.

Pitt said in a statement he was unaware Morrison had joint oversight over his ministerial portfolio and that he stands by the decisions he made at the time.

In a more detailed account published on Facebook later Tuesday, Morrison wrote that the gas project was the only matter he got directly involved with and that "I believe I made the right decision in the national interest."

In Australia, elected politicians are selected by the prime minister before being sworn in by the governor-general in a formal ceremony that is usually publicly recorded. AP

Sunak pledges civil service overhaul if elected UK PM

LONDON

RISHI Sunak, the British Indian former Chancellor on Tuesday pledged a major overhaul of the country's civil service to create a sharper, leaner bureaucracy if he takes charge at 10 Downing Street on September 5. Contesting against Liz Truss, Sunak wants civil servants to spend at least a year of their career outside government roles in industry to widen their experience.

"I'll press ahead with cuts to back office Civil Service headcount, recruiting and retaining the brightest and best. I'll strengthen civil servants' experience beyond Whitehall, allow ministers to bring in more external expertise, and bring in performance pay so we have a truly Rolls Royce service delivering for and accountable to the British people," he said.

"The future of the United Kingdom is bright but our union must work together, each nation shoulder to shoulder, to get there. We must defeat the collective challenges threatening the health of our public services. Under my plans, the UK government will play its part, but the same must be reciprocated by Holyrood," said Sunak.

Speaking ahead of hustings in Perth, Scotland, to convince Tory members who will be voting in the postal and online votes to elect a new party leader, Truss said she was "absolutely passionate about Scotland and the United Kingdom" and committed to delivering jobs, growth as well as opportunity. PTI

Singapore's GIC, others pick stake in Max; KKR exits

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@New Delhi

SINGAPORE state fund GIC, US-based New World Fund and a few other institutions on Tuesday bought US private equity major KKR's 257% stake in hospital chain Max Healthcare Institute via block deals.

The other buyers included Smaller Cap World Fund, BNP Paribas Arbitrage Fund, Monetary Authority of Singapore, WF Asian Reconnaissance Fund, and WF Asian Smaller Companies Fund, according to data available on the Bombay Stock Exchange.

These shares were purchased by the buyers at ₹353 apiece. Shares of Max Health closed nearly 10% higher on Tuesday at ₹396.70 on the BSE.

According to block deal data with the BSE, KKR, through its affiliate Kayak Investments Holding, sold a total of 26,01,96,762 equity shares, amounting to 27% stake in the company. This values the transactions at ₹9,184.94 crore.

Now that KKR has exited the firm, Max Healthcare promoters, led by Abhay Soi, will own about 24% stake in the company. Soi will remain the chairman and MD of the healthcare chain.

KKR and its Mumbai-headquartered affiliate Radiant in 2018 had acquired 49.7% shares in Max Healthcare at ₹80 apiece.

In the past one year, KKR had reduced stake in the company which is a part of its exit strategy. In September 2021, KKR sold part of its stake for 2,956 crore and then sold another 10% stake in the company for nearly ₹3,300 crore in March 2022.

WPI inflation eases to 13.9% in July

Owing to decline in prices of food articles like vegetables, milk, egg, meat and fish

MONIKA YADAV @New Delhi

IN a further sign of easing inflationary pressures, the wholesale price index-based inflation eased in July to 13.93% from 15.18% in the previous month, on account of decline in prices of food articles like vegetables, milk, eggs, meat and fish, Commerce Ministry data showed.

Wholesale prices of crude oil, petroleum and natural gas also came down substantially in July. Prices of food articles came down to 10.77% from 14.39% in the previous month.

Vegetables recorded the highest fall at 18.25% from 56.75% in June. Inflation in fuel and power basket rose to 43.75% in July from 40.38% in June. The WPI-based inflation was also a tad lower in manufactured products at 8.16% in July as against 9.19% in the previous month.

This is the 16th straight month when it is in double digits. It is to be noted that the WPI-based inflation was at an all-time high in the month of May at 15.88%, whereas in July last year, it stood at 11.57%.

Analysts are now hoping that Wholesale inflation by October would come down to single digit. "We see a likelihood of the first single-digit WPI inflation print by October 2022, after a gap of 18 months, if the downtrend in commodity prices sustains," says rating agency ICRA.

Retail inflation, which the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) keeps track of to frame monetary policy, stood at 6.71% in July. RBI has the mandate of keeping retail inflation in the range of 2%-6%. This was the seventh consecutive month when the retail inflation crossed the upper limit of 6%. It stood at 7.01% in the month of June. It has projected retail inflation of 6.7% for the current fiscal with inflation remaining above 6% for the first three quarters of FY23.

The apex bank has so far raised the repo rate three times to contain the inflation and in the month of July it increased the repo rate by 50 basis points to 5.40%. This is the third time when the Central Bank had to raise the short-term lending rate to tame the raging inflation. It had raised the repo rate by 40 basis points in May and then by 50 basis points in June. Since May this year, the RBI has increased the repo rate by 1.40%.

THAILAND

ECONOMY TO CONTINUE GROWING DESPITE WEAK Q2

Despite a weaker-than-expected second quarter, Thailand's economy is expected to continue growing in the second half of the year as tourism picks up, the central bank said on Tuesday, suggesting gradual policy tightening may continue. Second-quarter growth missed the central bank's forecast due to lower-than-expected private investment and inventories, but other elements overall were better than expected, including exports and tourism, Assistant Governor Piti Disyatat told a news channel. In April-June, the economy grew 2.5% from a year earlier and 0.7% from the previous three months. In June, the Bank of Thailand (BOT) forecast economic growth of 3.3% this year, with foreign tourists seen at 6 million. But it recently said growth could beat its forecast as there was some upside to its foreign tourist projection. The government's planning agency forecast 9.5 million foreign tourist arrivals this year. There were nearly 40 million foreign visitors to Thailand in 2019 before the pandemic hit. A global economic slowdown should have a limited impact on the Thai economy as the recovery of tourism has not historically been very sensitive to the global economy, Piti said.

PHILIPPINES

CENTRAL BANK TO HIKE RATE BY 50 BPS ON THURSDAY

The Philippine central bank will follow its surprise July rate hike with a half-point point rise on Thursday and another quarter-point increase in September to catch up with its peers in containing soaring inflation, a Reuters poll forecast said. Driven by higher transport and food prices, inflation in the Southeast Asian nation accelerated to 6.4% in July, its fastest pace in nearly four years, pushing the central bank to tighten monetary policy at a faster pace. The Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) followed two modest quarter-point rate rises so far in this cycle with a hefty unscheduled 75 basis point rise on July 14, its most aggressive since the central bank shifted to an inflation-targetting approach in 2002. Price pressures are widely expected to remain elevated in the coming months and a weaker peso, which has already fallen 9% this year, has further worsened the outlook through imported inflation. Inflation was not forecast to fall within the target range of 2%-4% until mid-2023, according to a separate Reuters poll taken in July, largely in line with the central bank's projection.

CHINA

TO BOOST ECONOMIC DEMAND, SPEED UP INFRA

China will boost economic demand in a strong, reasonable and moderate manner and accelerate infrastructure construction in third quarter of the year, officials from the state planner said on Tuesday. The comments came after bleak data for July, which showed the world's second-biggest economy unexpectedly slowed and property investment falling at the fastest clip this year. China will step up the use of special local government bonds and new credit granted by policy banks, officials said. NDRC in July approved eight fixed-asset investment projects worth 236.8 billion yuan ($34.89 billion). As of July 31, China issued most of the 3.45 trillion yuan in special bonds earmarked for infrastructure. That was part of the 2022 annual special bond quota of 3.65 trillion yuan. China is stepping up spending on infrastructure projects to prop up the flagging economy, which has been hobbled by strict Covid-19 restrictions, a troubled property market and weak consumption. Infrastructure investment grew 7.4% in the first seven months of the year from the same period a year ago, data from the statistics bureau showed.

Amul, Mother Dairy hike milk prices by ₹2 a litre

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@New Delhi

LIQUID milk suppliers Mother Dairy and Amul have increased the prices of milk by ₹2 per litre across all variants with effect from today. The two largest suppliers of liquid milk in the country have decided to increase the prices due to rising input cost.

Now, a litre of full cream milk in Delhi-NCR would cost ₹61, toned milk would cost ₹51 and double-toned milk would cost ₹45 a litre.

The Gujarat Cooperative Milk Marketing Federation (GCMMF), which sells its dairy products under the brand name of Amul, announced the hike in prices of Gold, Taaza and Shakti milk brands by ₹2 per litre in Ahmedabad and Saurashtra region in Gujarat, Delhi NCR, West Bengal, Mumbai and all other markets.

In a statement, the federation said: "Considering the rise in input costs, our member unions have also increased farmers' prices by 8-9% over the previous year." It also said that cattle feeding prices alone have increased 20% over the previous year.

GCMFF further said that the price revision will help in sustaining remunerative prices for its milk producers and encourage them for higher milk production.

Amul is the leader in the liquid milk market with close to 30% market share.

Following Amul's announcement, Mother Dairy also announced a similar increase in prices of milk across all its variants - full cream, toned and double toned.

Milk and milk product prices have risen 5.84% year-on-year in July, according to retail inflation data provided by the Ministry of Statistics and Programme Implementation (Mospi).

The war in Ukraine and Russia has also added to the increase in cattle feed prices forcing the milk producers to hike their prices.

In March also, both Amul and Mother dairy had increased the Milk prices by ₹2 a litre. With the latest round of hikes, milk prices have increased ₹4 per litre since March, translating into over 7-9% increase.

Ingka group opens first centre in Gurgaon

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@New Delhi

INGKA Centres, a sister organisation of home furnishing retailer IKEA, plans to invest over ₹7,300 crore in two of its retail and office spaces in Gurgaon and Noida.

The Sweden-based company on Tuesday formally started the construction of retail and office space in Gurgaon. The new IKEA anchored 'meeting place', as Ingka Centres like to call it, would be spread in an area of 1.7 million sq ft area and would be built with an investment of ₹3,500 crore.

Ingka Centres, part of the Ingka Group (which also includes IKEA Retail and Ingka Investments), first 'meeting place' in India, is expected to open by late 2025. The centre will have a mix of food and beverage and edutainment learning spaces, alongside a wide retail offer anchored by IKEA and with a combination of global and local brands. The centre will also have an office space spread across 320,000 sq ft sitting atop the retail space.

Jan Kristensson Ingka, Global Expansion & Development Director, of Ingka Centres told TNIE the group is planning another such centre in Noida. He said that they have already identified a plot in Noida for the Centre and they would announce the construction of the centre in Noida in six months.

SpiceJet gets 5 weeks to settle dispute with Maran

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Tuesday granted five weeks to SpiceJet to settle its long pending share transfer dispute with media baron and former promoter of the airline Kalanithi Maran, and said that it would also consider a joint request for mediation between the two parties to come to a settlement.

A bench comprising Chief Justice N V Ramana and Justices J K Maheshwari and Hima Kohli was apprised by senior advocate Mukul Rohatgi, appearing on behalf of SpiceJet, that there were three pending issues between the two parties and out of these, one has been settled on July 29. Rohtagi was initially seeking four to six weeks time for settling the issues.

Senior advocate Vikas Singh, representing Maran and his Kal Airways, suggested to the Top Court that the settlement talks could be referred to the Hyderabad Mediation Centre to which the Bench said, "We will see".

The bench was hearing SpiceJet's appeal against the November 2, 2020 order of the Delhi High Court, asking the budget airline to deposit around ₹243 crore as interest in connection with the share transfer dispute with Maran, and Kal Airways.

The matter has its root to a dispute arising out of the non-issuance of warrants in favour of Maran after the transfer of ownership to Ajay Singh, the controlling shareholder of SpiceJet.

Amidst a financial crisis, Maran and Kal Airways had transferred their entire 35.04 crore equity shares in SpiceJet, amounting to a 58.46% stake in the airline, to its co-founder Singh in February 2015 for an amount of just ₹2.

Maran and Kal Airways had moved the high court over the share-transfer dispute with SpiceJet, demanding that 18 crore warrants redeemable as equity shares be transferred to them. Since then, the case has seen many turns and twists.

Most recently, in March this year, Maran had rejected a ₹600 crore one-time settlement offer made by SpiceJet to end the dispute.

GSTATs to get operational in next six months

MONIKA YADAV @New Delhi

THE GST appellate tribunals will get operational at the State and Centre level in the next six months, as per Government sources.

The GST Council in its next meeting will likely give its go-ahead to the norms being worked out by the Group-of-Ministers headed by Haryana deputy chief minister Dushyant Chautala, people in the know of the matter said.

"The earlier points of contention related to the number of technical and judiciary members in each tribunal have been ironed out in the last GoM meeting. In each tribunal there will be one technical member and one judicial member. The panel hasn't yet decided whether the technical member needs to be a State representative or somebody with experience at the Central level. These issues need to be finalized," a top Government official said. He further added that the other issues like number of tribunals required in each State are yet to be discussed.

"The GST Council is likely to meet in the month of September. Setting up of GSTATs at Centre and State levels is crucial to deal with the pending cases. There are many taxpayers who haven't yet appealed in the court as they are waiting for the GSTATs," the official added.

It's been more than five years, since the central GST law was passed in 2016, but the tribunals have not yet been formed after Madras High Court issued a stay order over the number of technical and judicial members.

The GST act mandates the formation of tribunals at the centre and states level.

"Not everybody can afford to approach the High Court for tax litigation cases. Moreover, high courts are already overburdened with the cases, so it's high time that the GSTATs are rolled out in the country," the official stated.

The GST Council in its last meeting held in June had decided to form the panel to recommend required changes in the GST law for the formation of GST appellate tribunals in the country.

Many States have raised concerns over composition of tribunals which need to be addressed and the GoM was mandated to look at those issues.

India's chip market revenue may jump to $300 billion

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@New Delhi

INDIA's semiconductor component market will see its cumulative revenues climb to $300 billion during 2021-2026 as Make in India and Production Linked Incentive schemes will boost local sourcing of semi-components in coming years.

According to a research by the India Electronics and Semiconductor Association (IESA) and Counterpoint Research Mobile and wearables, IT and industrial sectors alone contributed to almost 80% of the semiconductor revenues in India in 2021. The report noted that the telecom sector, with the advent of 5G and fiber network rollout, will be a key catalyst in boosting the semiconductor components consumption. "This consumption will not only come from the advanced semiconductor-heavy 5G and FTTH network infrastructure equipment, which will contribute to more than 14% of the total semiconductor consumption in 2026, but also from the highly capable AI-driven 5G endpoints, from smartphones, tablets, PCs, connected cars, industrial robotics to private networks," said Neil Shah, Vice President, Counterpoint Research.

According to the report, India is poised to be the second largest market in the world from the perspective of scale and growing demand across industries and applications. This demand is being pushed by the increasing pace of digital transformation among consumers, enterprises and public sector through the adoption of new technologies, from advanced connectivity to content consumption to the cloud.

FUEL DEMAND

Crude prices dip globally over recession concerns

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

CRUDE prices in the international market dipped on Tuesday owing to the concern of global recession, which is expected to reduce the fuel demand.

Brent Crude Future, the benchmark of global oil price declined 3.71% to $95.20 per barrel on Tuesday while West Texas Intermediate crude oil was trading 0.37% lower at $89.08 per barrel. This is the first time the oil price has touched the lowest level since Russia started military operations in Ukraine. Brent prices peaked on 7 March at $139.13 when the war between Russia and Ukraine was on its peak. Since the war, the oil price has remained above $100 for most of the time.

Meanwhile, Moody's Analytics in a recent report on the Asia Pacific (APAC) region predicted that crude prices will fall to almost $70 a barrel by the end of next year. "Some of the heat has come out of oil markets in recent weeks. Brent crude returned below $100 a barrel in August, with the drop gradually flowing through to lower prices at the pump. This trend will continue; we expect crude prices to fall to almost $70 a barrel by the end of next year. For the APAC region's big oil importers, notably Singapore and Hong Kong, this will ease pinching price pressures," said the Moody's report.

The report noted that Russia's invasion of Ukraine sent shock waves through the global energy markets.

Jhunjhunwala-backed Concord Biotech to hit IPO market

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@New Delhi

THE show goes on at Rakesh Jhunjhunwala's investment arm Rare Enterprises. Two days after the demise of the billionaire investor, it is known that Rare Enterprises-backed Concord Biotech has filed its draft red herring prospectus (DRHP) with the market regulator SEBI to raise funds via an initial public offering (IPO).

According to the draft paper, the IPO consists of a pure offer-for-sale of up to 2.09 crore shares or the entire 20% stake by its promoter Helix Investment Holdings, which is backed by Quadria Capital Fund LP, a healthcare-focused private equity fund in Asia. Quadria had invested ₹475.30 crore in 2016 for the 20% stake. Rare Enterprises holds about 24% stake in Concord Biotech.

The Ahmedabad-based biopharma firm's revenue from operations rose to ₹713 crore in financial year (FY) 2022 from ₹617 crore in the preceding financial year. However, profit after tax came down to ₹175 crore in FY22 from ₹235 crore in the previous fiscal. As of March 2022, it had a portfolio of 56 brands and 65 products, including 22 APIs and 43 formulations. The company, however, hasn't disclosed details of the IPO such as the offer size or the price band.

In another instance, Rare Enterprises bought 4,250,000 shares at ₹53.50 apiece in sewing machine firm Singer India through bulk deal. Post this purchase, Rare's stake in Singer is pegged at 10% Singer India is said to be the last investment decision of Jhunjhunwala. Shares of Singer India locked in an upper circuit of 20% on Tuesday. The scrip closed at ₹69.15 on the BSE against the previous close of ₹57.65.

Jhunjhunwala, who was battling health problems for a while, was declared dead Sunday morning at the age of 62. With a net worth of $5.8 billion, Jhunjhunwala was probably the most influential investor of the Indian equity market.

Praggu beats Firouzja in FTX Crypto Cup

Teenage Indian GM R Praggnanandhaa on Tuesday opened his campaign in the FTX Crypto Cup, the American finale of Champions Chess Tour, with a 2.5-1.5 win over the world's top junior player Alireza Firouzja. He opened with a win in the first of the four-game match. He lost the second game before winning the third and drawing the fourth to beat Firouzja.

SWEEPING REFORMS IN IOA

Delhi High Court puts three-member CoA in charge of India's supreme Olympic body to conduct elections

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

INDIAN sport seems to be heading towards uncharted territory. Hours after the international football federation (FIFA) suspended the All India Football Federation (AIFF) due to "third-party intervention", the Delhi High Court, as expected, appointed a Committee of Administrators (CoA) in Indian Olympic Association (IOA) to amend the constitution and hold elections within 16 weeks. The sports code is not restricted to just NSFs anymore but "must be made applicable to the IOA and to every constituent NSFs and to every State and District Level Association".

Sweeping reforms have been suggested to clean up sports. The Delhi High Court division bench of judges Manmohan and Najmi Waziri directed the IOA election be held in 16 weeks time under the new constitution. The order was in response to senior advocate Rahul Mehra's petition that said IOA is violating 2011 National Sports Development Code of India. He had listed 13 points and the court has addressed them point-wise.

Interestingly, like in AIFF, here too two administrators are the same: retired SC judge, Anil Dave, and SY Quraishi. Vikas Swarup, former secretary, external affairs ministry, would be third member in IOA. Apart from them, three sportspersons — Beijing Olympic gold medallist Abhinav Bindra, 2003 athletics world championships medallist Anju Bobby George, and archery world cup medallist, L Bombayla Devi — have been appointed as consultants to assist them in amending the constitution.

Quraishi is already part of CoAs in AIFF and FIH and is an observer in Equestrian Federation of India.

All eyes will now be on the International Olympic Committee (IOC). They had already sent a letter last month dated July 20, wherein they warned that if quadrennial elections are not held in the recent weeks under the old constitution, IOC will "...have no other option but to consider appropriate protective measures vis-a-vis IOA, including suspension..." On Monday, the IOC told this newspaper that "IOC's position has not changed since its letter of 20th July". It needs to be seen how they react.

Setback for states

There are quite a few directives that would have a wider implication. The court has said that only Olympic sport NSFs will have voting rights in the IOA constitutions and not the State Olympic Associations that had been the norm. It will be a setback for them."Of the 56 NSFs recognized by the government, only 29 NSFs represent Olympic sports. The remaining 27 NSFs are for non-Olympic sports," it said. "Perpetuation of control or hegemony of a group over a Society/Association or entity is ex facie undemocratic. All-the-more, in cases where the entity discharges public functions. For the reasons discussed hereinabove, there should be no SOAs. However, should the IOA insist on having them, the SOAs shall have no votes in the IOA nor will their members be elected to the IOA EC or discharge any position of authority or control..."

The court agreed with the petitioner that age and tenure limits should be applied to all members of the EC of the IOA and not only to president, secretary and treasurer as well as to everyone in the General Assembly. As of now president, secretary and the treasurer had a 12-years term.

The number of executive council members too have been brought down. As of now, the IOA has more than 30 EC members. The court has brought that down to 15: seven office bearers and eight EC members. The court said that general body as also Executive Council must have a minimum 25 per cent of representation of eminent sports persons with voting rights. The court also said that "persons seeking re-election for the same post must secure two-thirds majority".

The court has directed that "the erstwhile Executive Committee of IOA shall forthwith hand over the charge to the CoA" who would carry out the day to day governance of the IOA. The CoA will have 16 weeks within which the constitution would be amended and election be held accordingly.

Mehra said, "this will eventually help the sport and the sports persons to grow. If these reforms kick in now, in the next decade or two we will India among the top performers at Olympics."

Ministry active, eyes on Supreme Court today

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

INDIAN football is still shuddering from the jolt it received from the sport's governing body, FIFA, late on Monday. The suspension means India cannot host the Under-17 women's World Cup that was being aggressively promoted as another milestone for the country in terms of hosting international events. Such is its importance that even Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, according to reports, had apprised the Supreme Court on the development.

There were multiple indications that a suspension was in the offing and the sports ministry had been trying to defuse the situation since August 3 order. The ministry had discussions with FIFA on Friday as and Monday. According to the ministry, talks with FIFA were positive and discussions were held between FIFA, CoA and the other stakeholders. Even the CoA agreed to do away with the 50 per cent eminent sportsperson voting rights.

Since bringing normalcy and hosting the World Cup are their priorities, the ministry is hoping for a positive outcome when the division bench of judges, Justices DY Chandrachud and AS Bopanna, take up the matter on Wednesday.

As of now, "The AIFF representative and club teams are therefore no longer entitled to take part in international competitions until the suspension is lifted. This also means that neither the AIFF nor any of its members or officials may benefit from any development programmes, courses or training from FIFA and/or the AFC." This will affect not just the India team but also numerous other Indian players and officials associated with the game on an international level. The Gokulam FC women's team is apparently waiting in Uzbekistan for court order.

The decision which the world body took has surprised the CoA. "The Committee of Administrators (CoA) has expressed its surprise and disappointment at the recent turn of events, by dint of which, the All India Football Federation has been suspended by FIFA, the governing body of world football, from August 14, 2022 until further notice, as per a letter from Fatma Samoura, Secretary General, FIFA, on August 15, 2022. "The CoA is surprised that the FIFA decision has come when extensive discussions were going on for the past few days between all stakeholders, including FIFA-AFC, AIFF, CoA, and the Sports Ministry as per the Order of the Supreme Court...

"In the discussions held among the FIFA-AFC, AIFF, CoA, and the Sports Ministry in the past few days, it was suggested that the present elections of the AIFF Executive Committee may be conducted with the Electoral College consisting of 36 state representatives." What seems interesting is that hours after the suspension, the CoA is ready to make those necessary changes which the state units were requesting them earlier. The fate of the elections supposed to be held on August 28 now is not known either. There is hope though. Some felt that the suspension can be revoked at any time after SC gives clearance. The FIFA letter also indicated that "FIFA is in constant constructive contact with the Ministry of Youth Affairs and Sports in India and is hopeful that a positive outcome to the case may still be achieved."

India to play home Test after 9 years

GOMESH S @Chennai

AS the International Cricket Council (ICC) announced the first-ever women's Future Tours Programme (FTP) for the upcoming World Championship cycle, the biggest talking point for India is the fact that they would be playing a Test at home for the first time since 2014. They are set to host both England and Australia for a multi-format series in December 2023, which will include a Test match each. Although it is not a part of the FTP, in the schedule confirmed by Cricket Australia, India women will also tour Australia in January 2026, where they will be playing a Test match.

The other notable point in the fixtures is that India would be touring South Africa to take part in a T20I tri-series featuring the hosts and West Indies, which should give them ample time to get acclimatised to the conditions before the 2023 T20 World Cup.

Between September 2022 and January 2025, India are scheduled to play 2 Tests, 24 ODIs, and 33 T20Is, apart from the two T20 World Cups (SA 2023, Bangladesh in October 2024) and the 2022 Asia Cup (to be held in October). While seven of the bilateral series scheduled would be a part of the World Championship cycle, India would be playing England and Australia which are not a part of it. India would also be hosting Ireland for the first time for three ODIs and as many T20Is in January 2025.

Excluding the Asia Cup and T20 World Cups, India would be playing Australia the most — 22 games across formats — followed by England (10) and South Africa (8). They will play Ireland, New Zealand and Bangladesh the least (6), but the boards could schedule tours in the future as well.

As it has been the case, India will not play Pakistan outside of the global tournaments and Asia Cups.

Ex-BCCI jt secy Choudhary passes away

RANCHI: Amitabh Choudhary, the former BCCI secretary and president of Jharkhand State Cricket Association (JSCA) died of heart attack on Tuesday morning. He was 62. A retired senior IPS officer, who rose to the rank of IGP with the Jharkhand Police, he was also the chairman of Jharkhand Public Service Commission (JPSC). Choudhary was vital in getting the first-class status for Jharkhand after BCCI disbanded the Bihar Cricket Association. Once Jharkhand got the official FC status, MS Dhoni shifted from Bihar and represented the state till the end of his career. Choudhary also played a major role in building one of the finest cricket stadiums in Ranchi and should be considered instrumental in bringing international cricket and IPL to the industrial town. He had also served as a BCCI joint secretary.

Murray overcomes Wawrinka in 3 sets

MASON (OHIO): Andy Murray pulled out a 7-6 (3), 5-7, 7-5 win over Stan Wawrinka in the first round of the Western & Southern Open in a match-up of three-time Grand Slam champions trying to put injuries behind them. In a first-round women's match Monday, unseeded Amanda Anisimova upset ninth-seeded Daria Kasatkina 6-4, 6-4, while Marin Cilic breezed to a 6-3, 6-3 win over Jaume Munar.

THE LUMIÈRE BROTHERS: INVENTORS OF CINEMA

The films that we see and enjoy today have come a long way. The making of films is a delicate art form. Let's take a look at the brothers who changed the way we see cinema

PIONEERS OF CINEMA

Born in Lyon, France, Auguste Lumière and Louis Lumeire colloquially known as the Lumeire Brothers were the masterminds of filmmaking. They changed the outlook of cinema

INSPIRED BY EDISON

The Lumière Brothers were inspired by Thomas Edison's invention of the Kinetoscope which is an early motion picture device where one person at a time can watch a film via a peephole which is located at the top of the device

INVENTING THE CINÉMATOGRAPHE

The brothers invented the Cinématographe which is one of the first motion picture apparatuses. The Cinématographe functioned both as a camera and a projector. They projected a bright light through the device which allowed films to be projected on a wall or a screen

FLAWS OF KINETOSCOPE

The brothers also saw the flaws in the device. They realised that Edison's Kinetoscope was a very heavy device that was difficult to move and only an individual at a time could watch the film

FUNCTIONING OF CINÉMATOGRAPHE

Unlike the Kinetograph, the Cinématographe was not battery driven. The Cinématographe was hand-cranked and it could function as a camera and develop the film it shot

FIRST CINÉMATOGRAPHE SHOW

On March 22, 1895, the brothers demonstrated the powers of the Cinématographe to a private audience. The Lumière Brothers then held their first public screening at the Grand Café, Boulevard des Capucines in Paris, on December 28 1895. They showed a series of 10 short films which lasted for 15 minutes

A LEGENDARY MYTH

One of the films the brothers screened that night called the 'The Train arrives at La Ciotat Station' shows a train arriving at the La Ciotat Station in a single shot. However, since people had never seen such a spectacle in their life before, the story goes that people ran away from the screening, fearing for their lives

ART IMITATES LIFE

The films that the brothers produced shared all characteristics with the films that were made by Thomas Edison. They were all black and white films and were captured in a single uninterrupted shot. However, the films that were made by Edison were centered around plays but the films the Lumière Brothers made were known as Actualites. These films showcased snip bits from everyday life which the audience could relate to

ASTEROIDS MAY BE EARTH'S WATER SOURCE

In a quest to shed light on origins of life, researchers are scrutinising material brought back from Ryugu

SPACE

TOKYO: Water may have been brought to Earth by asteroids from the outer edges of the solar system, scientists said after analysing rare samples collected on a six-year Japanese space mission.

In a quest to shed light on the origins of life and the formation of the universe, researchers are scrutinising material brought back to earth in 2020 from the asteroid Ryugu.

The 5.4 grams of rocks and dust were gathered by a Japanese space probe, called Hayabusa-2, that landed on the celestial body and fired an "impactor" into its surface.

Studies on the material are just beginning to be published. In June, one group of researchers said they had found organic material which showed that some of the building blocks of life on Earth—amino acids, may have been formed in space.

In a new paper published in the journal Nature Astronomy, scientists have said that the Ryugu samples could give clues to the mystery of how oceans appeared on our planet billions of years ago.

"Volatile and organic-rich C-type asteroids may have been one of the main sources of Earth's water," said the study by scientists from Japan and various other countries which was published on Monday.

"The delivery of volatiles (that is, organics and water) to the Earth is still a subject of notable debate," it further said. But the organic materials found "in Ryugu particles, identified in this study, probably represent one important source of volatiles".

The scientists have hypothesised that such material probably has an "outer Solar System origin", but said it was "unlikely to be the only source of volatiles delivered to the early Earth".

Japanese space probe Hayabusa-2 was launched in 2014 on its mission to Ryugu asteroid, which was around 300 million kilometres away.

It returned to the Earth's orbit two years ago to drop off a capsule that was containing the sample.

In the Nature Astronomy study, the researchers again hailed the findings made possible by the mission.

"Ryugu particles are undoubtedly among the most uncontaminated Solar System materials available for laboratory study and ongoing investigations of these precious samples will certainly expand our understanding of early Solar System processes," the study said.

Japan Aerospace Exploration Agency's voyage spacecraft is headed off for a new mission where it will record data on dust in interplanetary space and observe and photograph two new asteroids named '2001 CC21' and '1998 KY26'.

China unveils perks to boost birth rate

POPULATION

China on Tuesday announced a slew of perks aimed at encouraging families to have more babies, as birth rates hit a record low and officials warned that the population will start to shrink by 2025. The world's most populous country has been grappling with a looming demographic crisis as it faces a rapidly ageing workforce, slowing economy and its weakest population growth in decades. Although Beijing ended its draconian "one-child rule" in 2016 and last year allowed couples to have three children, birth rates have slipped over the past five years. The policy guidelines issued by the National Health Commission Tuesday urge both the central and provincial governments to increase spending on reproductive health and improve childcare services nationwide. They require local governments to "implement active fertility support measures", including offering subsidies, tax rebates, and better health insurance, as well as education, housing and employment support for young families. All provinces must also ensure they provide enough nurseries for children aged two to three in a bid to reduce a severe shortage of childcare services. Richer cities have been doling out tax and housing credits, educational benefits and cash incentives to encourage women to have more children

DAY'S DIARY

First Flower

On this day in 2015, scientists in the US announced what could have been the world's first flower: Montsechia Vidalii, 130 million years old

WHERE THEY GREW

According to Indiana University scientist David Dilcher and other paleobotanists, Montsechia Vidalii was an aquatic plant that inhabited freshwater lakes in present-day Spain

NO ROOTS, NO PETALS

They determined that Montsechia Vidalii had no roots or petals, and that it grew several tiny flowers, each of which contained a single seed

KEY BREAKTHROUGH

Montsechia Vidalii could provide further insight into how homo sapiens and other animals came to coexist with flowering plants

A city-based fitness instructor recently conducted a yoga session for author and Lok Sabha MP Shashi Tharoor and his friends in New Delhi

MONIKA MONALISA

Mita Vinay (standing) briefing the participants, including Shashi Tharoor, on the session, 'Yoga Beyond Mats'

PUSHING THRESHOLDS

WORK, performance reviews, home responsibilities and stress... the balancing act can get quite difficult. Mita Vinay, a healer and yoga teacher can vouch that the central lawmakers and business tycoons of our country have extremely hectic and stressful lives. Recently, Vinay had the opportunity to do a two-day yoga workshop for author and politician Shashi Tharoor, and some of his friends at his residence in New Delhi, which was also attended by journalist Rajeep Sardesai and businessman Rajiv Kalra, among others.

They participated in Vinay's 'Yoga Beyond the Mats' process. "They are extremely health conscious but have hectic lives. However, they are trying their own bit. What I figured out is that they have to work harder for their bodies to be more aligned. But they were open to learning and constantly asking if they were doing the asanas right," says Vinay, adding that Sardesai was so relaxed during the workshop that he dozed off during one of the sessions.

The workshop was not an outcome of any planning. During a casual chat with Tharoor three months ago when he was in the city, she described how yoga has changed her life and how she has been healing people with her methods. "He does not know me personally. He just gave me this opportunity. When I explained how yoga goes beyond mat works, he seemed quite interested. He said the Parliament season will start from July, and assured me that we could try something in July and August," says the owner of Bodhsara Wellness and Salt Studio, who hopes to conduct another session for him.

We all need to ensure our own health and wellness as part of our everyday behaviour. My mornings are now invested in recharging myself through stretches, breathing and light movement exercises. The five aspects of the workshop are derived from yoga in a way that's easily adaptable to most people's day-to-day lives. This workshop also brings a new sense of awareness of your own body, and mindfulness about things we need to do

Shashi Tharoor, author and Lok Sabha MP

KNOW YOUR CITY

Arun Prasad, city-based history researcher, unravels interesting facts about Bengaluru in this weekly quiz series. So it's time for you to find out how familiar you are with the city, beyond its heritage buildings, IT parks and the pub culture.

THE QUIZ WILL BE PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY

Send answers to bengalurucityexpress@gmail.com with the subject line 'Know Your City Quiz'

Correct answers and names of first three respondents with right answers will be featured in CE on Thursday.

QUESTIONS

1. Every year Independence Day and Republic Day parades and celebrations are held officially at Field Marshal Manekshaw Parade Ground in Bengaluru. This historic ground, stretched between two iconic roads, is an ideal location for Stately events. Name the two iconic roads.

2. This park was opened in 1996, and laid out on a 22-acre stretch, adjacent to the parade grounds in Bengaluru. It is in memory of the first Indian Commander-in-Chief of the Army who held the rank of one of only two five-star rank of Field Marshal in the Indian Army, the other being Field Marshal Manekshaw.

3. Mysore Bank circle was the nucleus of many activities during India's freedom struggle. During the Quit India movement in August 1942, police opened fire at a huge gathering at the circle in which six people lost their lives (most of them were students of Central College) and left many severely injured. A 10-feet tall memorial stone plaque was erected adjacent to the circle in memory of the martyrs. This historic circle is where once stood one of the fort gates that Kempegowda built in 1537. Name the fort gate.

Art of Loom: The future of sustainable fashion

Fashion-loving Thais are choosing homegrown designers who make clothes out of traditional Thai textiles which are spun from silk, cotton or hemp

DR VILAWAN MANGKLATANAKUL
The writer is Deputy Permanent Secretary for Foreign Affairs of Thailand

HOW many times do you wear a piece of clothing before throwing it away? A study of 2,000 women by the British charity Barnardo's reveals that one piece of clothing is worn an average of seven times before being thrown out. Fast fashion has made it possible for one to constantly change their looks on the cheap. The Instagram culture is fueling the drive to buy new clothes often. Outfits that "no longer spark joy" can be easily discarded. But this "out of sight, out of mind" mentality is quickly inundating landfills across the world with unloved garments.

The fashion industry accounts for about 10 per cent of global carbon emissions and 20 per cent of wastewater. This should not come as a surprise as synthetic textiles are the mainstay of the fast fashion industry. Fabric like polyester and those spun from plastic threads, break down into microplastics which go into the soil and water, ultimately entering the food chain. In fact, microplastics have become a leading marine pollutant. Even if countries have good marine debris and wastewater management, microplastics from synthetic fibres in the laundry could still threaten the well-being of life below water. As a contrast, and a blessing in fact, natural yarn used in Thai silk and cotton garments are biodegradable, and so, do not break down into microplastics.

Thai consumers are equally addicted to fast fashion. But there is hope on the horizon because a growing number of fashion-loving Thais are choosing homegrown designers who make clothes out of traditional Thai textiles.

For environmentally and socially conscious customers, Thai handloom fabrics are a part of the answer. Traditional Thai fabrics are spun from silk, cotton or hemp. Moreover, they are ethically made and help develop communities. In Thailand, handlooms are strongly grounded in local villages and organised around women-led initiatives. In fact, they empower women to be the decision-makers and breadwinners for their families. Income generated by these enterprises goes back directly to improving the education and healthcare of community members.

The making of artisanal Thai fabrics is also closely associated with nature. For silks, villagers grow mulberry trees and harvest the leaves for feeding silkworms. Leftover waste from growing the silkworms then becomes good quality fertiliser. As opposed to chemical dyes, colours derived from natural sources such as indigo for blue, ebony seeds for grey and black, lac for red, are non-toxic, so they can be discarded without causing harmful pollution. Old traditional techniques continue to prove better for both the planet and the people.

However, Thailand's traditional textile industry might have not seen the light, save for one woman and her powerful vision.

Examples of local mudmee from Baan Hua Fai Village | TOURISMISAN WEBSITE

While accompanying His Majesty the Late King Bhumibol the Great on his many trips to distant villages in Thailand, Her Majesty Queen Sirikit the Queen Mother would receive many gifts of traditional hand-woven fabric from the local women.

The intricate and meticulous designs made a lasting impression on the Queen, whose appreciation for the art of the loom became well known, and wherever she went, villagers would come and present their creations. She inquired about each piece, paying ample attention to each of their stories.

Her Majesty was perturbed to hear that this traditional Thai art form was in danger of disappearing. Farmers were more interested in sending their children to cities for better opportunities. Handloom was a skill and knowledge passed from one generation to the next.

What if these women were to organise themselves around a cottage industry to weave in between crop growing seasons as a way to supplement their families' income? It could be a way to save this cultural heritage from dying, while supporting rural community employment in the process.

Her Majesty Queen Sirikit launched the SUPPORT Foundation to institutionalise the royal initiative to develop the cottage craft industries around the country. By providing an outlet for their products to reach the market, the SUPPORT Foundation played a crucial role in making sure the villagers actually had alternative means of income besides farming which resulted in a number of them starting to develop the business of handloom fabrics in earnest.

Meanwhile, Her Majesty became the trendsetter of traditional Thai fashion. Her elegant outfits made from traditional fabrics from different regions of the country inspired city ladies to send Thai silk and cotton fabric to their dressmakers. She founded a fashion movement that aroused a sense of pride in the nation's cultural heritage. In turn, the demand for traditional Thai fabrics transformed small household looms into commercially viable enterprises. Later government policies such as One Tambon One Product (OTOP) would formalise state support for micro enterprises involved in traditional arts and crafts, featuring handlooms as a major product.

Such is the story of Baan Hua Fai, a village in the KhonKaen Province in the Isan region, or the northeast of Thailand. The celebrated local mudmee, or ikat pattern of Thai silk was family wisdom that was passed on from mother to daughter, made for special occasions such as weddings or given as gifts. When Her Majesty the Queen Mother visited the region in 1983, she was impressed with the unique artistry of Baan Hua Fai's silk, and invited them to send samples to Chitralada Palace. Soon after, the villagers were granted royal patronage under the SUPPORT Foundation.

Over the years, Baan Hua Fai has grown to be a village cooperative of almost 200 members, most of them women. Today, it has become a model OTOP enterprise that welcomes visitors and serves as a learning and collaborative centre for design and production techniques. Younger generations are adopting new business models according to changing tastes and the marketing environment. They sell products online via Facebook and Instagram, and collaborate with Thailand's top designers.

The next phase in the growth trajectory of traditional Thai fashion is for it to truly "go global". In the footsteps of her grandmother, Her Royal Highness Princess Sirivannavari Nariratana spearheaded the creation of the Thai Textiles Trend Book. As the editor-in-chief, Princess Sirivannavari oversaw the compilation of "Thai tones" as well as patterns and material that would make traditional Thai textiles marketable beyond Thailand. Made available for free in both print and electronic versions on the Ministry of Culture website, the Trend Book offers ready references for weavers, designers, students and anyone developing new ideas for Thai textiles.

Besides drawing upon Her Majesty The Queen Mother's legacy for inspiration, Princess Sirivannavari envisions sustainability to be interwoven with traditional Thai craftsmanship and local wisdom. The use of natural pigments, fibres and low-carbon production techniques corresponds to the Bio-Circular-Green Economy Model of sustainable consumption and production that the Thai government is promoting. Thailand's village handloom enterprises also represent success stories in achieving the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). These include SDG 1 (no poverty), SDG 5 (gender equality), SDG 8 (decent work and economic growth) and SDG 12 (responsible consumption and production), among others.

The story of Thailand's sustainable fashion industry gives us an important lesson – that we can look back into our past to find answers for the future. For Thailand, the Royal Family has been instrumental in preserving traditional knowledge and local wisdom, which have shown the way for our people to live in balance with the natural environment for centuries. That is why the concept of sustainability finds a ready audience in Thailand. It is almost innate in the real Thai way of life.

FIT BIT

PARIVRTTA BALASANA

(CHILD POSE PRAYER TWIST)

This variation of Balasana (child pose) is a beginner level abdominal and spinal twist. It's a chest opening pose that opens the chest, shoulders and upper and mid-back. Students understand the abdominal twist in a relaxed prone position. It balances the Manipura (solar plexus) Swadhisthana (sacral) and Muladhara (root) Chakras.

STEPS

- Sit in Vajrasana (Thunderbolt Pose) and take a few breaths. Align your buttocks on the heels. Keep both knees sticking to each other or at a short distance, waist perfectly straight.
- Inhale, take a deep breath and lengthen the spine raising the arms above the head, exhaling, and twist towards your right side.
- Be aware of turning from the shoulders and upper body to the lower back. Place your left elbow outside the right knee aligning the right palm on the left palm.
- Keep breathing, which becomes more profound, and internal heat is created.
- Turn the chest towards the right. The neck is twisted with the gaze towards the ceiling and the head active, which is an automatic abdominal twist. Stay her as per your capacity.
- After achieving the twist, breathe deeper and expand the chest with every inhale. Release the asana.
- Inhale and rise to Vajrasana, releasing the palms and the abdominal twist.
- Repeat the same on the other side.
- Finally relax in Sukhasana.

BENEFITS

- Stretches the muscles of the upper and mid-back, opens the shoulder blades, and strengthens the spine.
- Tones abdominal muscles and strengthens the core, lower limbs and knees.
- Releases the upper back stiffness and relaxes the cervical spine.
- Increases lung capacity; enhances the chest cavity and elasticity of diaphragm.
- Namaskar mudra supports the chest opening; calms nervous system.
- Metabolism increases due to the stimulation of digestive organs.
- Helps in detoxification, which is energising.
- Very effective on the respiratory system.
- Constipation and IBS can be solved.
- Good for treating insomnia, depression, and anxiety.
- Stimulates the thyroid glands.
- Enhances blood circulation.

LIMITATIONS

People who have undergone recent surgeries of the shoulder, abdomen, knees, heart, have lack of breath awareness and coordination with body alignment, acute asthma, abdominal pressure, peptic ulcers, serious colon, hernia, cervical-spondylosis, migraine, high blood pressure or epilepsy, pregnant women, and senior citizens, rheumatoid-arthritis, avoid this pose.

THE LIFE CONTAINED IN AN OBITUARY

FLYLEAF
VR FEROSE

(The author is a technologist based in Silicon Valley who is gently mad about books)

THE obituary page of The New York Times is a celebration of extraordinary lives. When I read that paper's obit of 94-year-old Sidney Poitier (the first person of colour to win an Oscar in 1963 for "Lilies of the Field") by William Grimes on January 8, 2022, it increased my interest in understanding how obituaries are written so quickly (since it has to appear immediately after the death of the subject). Most major newspapers write obits in advance, long before the famous person has died!

But the obit is not about death at all. It is about life. It is one last chance to make the dead live again. The obit captures the essence of a person's entire life and makes revealing observations that the subject never gets to read! Writing an obit is an art form. The typical length is 600-800 words accompanied by at least one picture. One of the longest ones written in New York Times was for Pope John Paul II; it went upto 13,870 words! Some obits are on the front page and the question of who is worthy of a page-one obit is often a matter of debate.

If there is one book that is a must read in this category it is Book of the Dead by William McDonald. It captures the stories of the greatest men and women who ever lived, in the form of a collection of obituaries published by The New York Times. The paper's obit section has some of the most inspiring, insightful, often funny, and elegantly written stories celebrating the lives of the men and women who have influenced our world. William McDonald, The Times' obituary editor who was recently featured in the award-winning documentary Obit, selected 320 obits of the most important and influential people from the newspaper's archives. In chapters like "Stage and Screen," "Titans of Business," "The Notorious," "Scientists and Healers," "Athletes," and "American Leaders," the entries include a range of newsmakers from the last century and a half, including Annie Oakley, Theodore Roosevelt, Joseph Stalin, Marilyn Monroe, Coco Chanel, Malcolm X, Jackie Robinson and Prince. Also included is a webkey which allows instant access to an exclusive website featuring 10,000 selected obituaries that are easily searchable by name, theme, dates etc.

Another widely read obit column is that of The Daily Telegraph. It brought out five books of obituaries that have been both a critical and a popular success. Well researched, each life story is told with intimate revelations and very often with great humour. The Very Best of The Daily Telegraph Books of Obituaries really lives up to its name. Some of the obits are so captivating that if you didn't know the dear departed before reading the Telegraph obit you would wish that he or she had been your life's best buddy!

Another charming and lyrical book is about the people who write obituaries: The Dead Beat by Marilyn Johnson. This book answers the question: What makes the obituary page so compelling? Jim Sheeler's Obit comprises obits of ordinary people.

Most of the people eulogised in Obit are unknown, but they will remind you of the variety of humans on earth and the absolute certainty that no matter how powerful a personality, eventually the body goes, and what remains stays not only in people's hearts but in their stories.

If you manage to appear in a New York Times or a Telegraph obituary column, it meant that your life had been noted and you could really rest in peace!

Book stores in the city are recording an increase in footfall after the pandemic, which had pushed bookworms into the habit of online reading

Renewing booky bonds

NAMRATA SINDWANI

FOR a long time, bookstores have been grappling with business which hit nadir with the advent of online versions and e-commerce platforms delivering the coveted books at the readers' doorsteps. When the pandemic shifted offices to homes, readers would devour books from the online copies and would fleetingly go through some pages between intermissions from work or after wrapping up.

The pandemic ebbed and the doors of the bookstores opened again. The pleasure of holding books, turning the pages physically, and looking at them lying on the table or by the bedside – the collective attachment – drew book-baaz among Bengalureans to the stores. Shop owners, who presumed that exposure to online books would suppress the love for real ones, were glad to see a rise of 20 to 40 per cent in sale figures as more readers joined the flock to pick their favourite reads.

Mayi Gowda, owner of the Blossom Book House, Church Street, says they have been doing 30-40 per cent more business compared to pre-Covid-19 levels. When the first lockdown was eased, the expected response of readers to lunge at the opportunity was absent. But the footfall increased exponentially post the second lockdown.

Dr Aparna Sreevatsa, an oncologist and avid reader, shares the experience of visiting a bookstore, surfing various categories, and reading some pages which an audiobook or e-book fail to provide. She adds that while travelling or after a toiling day or doing odd jobs, digital books complement their physical counterparts as it is convenient to listen to and carry.

> Business has been smooth with a 15-20 per cent spike in sales since January 2022. Even authors are visiting bookstores and supporting individual ones, urging people to buy more books
>
> Krishna Gowda, Bookworm owner

Owner of Bookworm on Church Street, Krishna Gowda, says, "We have seen a 20 per cent jump in business post pandemic, with new readers adding to the footfall."

A bookstore is not just a place lined with books, Gowda explains, but it also serves as a platform for people to meet and discuss ideas, which digital content has no scope for. Echoing Gowda, Keshava R from the Bookhive says, "Business has been smooth with a 15-20 per cent spike in sales since January 2022. Even authors are visiting bookstores and supporting individual ones, urging people to buy more books".

Smita Sriharsha, an engineer, who was buying books at the Bookworm, says it was nostalgic to visit the store. The feeling of holding a book, and making notes for a heavy read was something she really enjoyed.

But it is still not an Alice-in-bookland situation as proprietor of Goobe's Book Republic on Church Street Ravi Menezes says the recovery is slow as they are recording only 50-60 per cent of pre-pandemic sales, which has made even meeting the overhead costs difficult. To offset losses, they started selling books online but are only able to make up to 5-10 per cent sales, accruing an overall fall of around 40 per cent revenue. Menezes' opinion is that people should come to bookstores, else they will vanish.

Chaturdhuj G Kalro, partner, Gangarams' Book Bureau, is relieved that book sales have bounced back after the pandemic, which axed sales to only 25-30 per cent of the pre-pandemic levels. More customers are coming to the store, he admits, along with an upward trajectory in the use of PDFs and online resources.

Students, who had to continue their studies through online classes during the pandemic, are now habituated to using free PDF copies. Newer editions of books on subjects taught in schools drain the coffers of bookstores. But there's hope for growth, Chaturdhuj says because of the steady rise in numbers of customers.

HAPPY 75, INDIA!

HRIDAY RANJAN
Urban Bourbon

(Writer, comedian)

THIS week has been an important one in our history. On August 15, despite having to endure another Dry Day, this one was special. Our nation turned 75, and it took me some time to gather my thoughts on this landmark.

I distinctly remember when we celebrated 50 years of independence in the year 1997. Newspapers, magazines, and hoardings splashed pictures commemorating the event. The government launched new stamps (not to be confused with the stamps that infuriate the NCB!). But my favourite memory is of AR Rahman releasing his version of Vande Mataram. For the new converts, the Rahman you see today is nothing like the version he was decades ago. Today, he is a clean-shaven, decent guy who looks like the school topper. But back in the day, Rahman was wild. He had shoulder-length hair, wore shades and leather jackets, and played a rockstar in his videos. As young Rahman walked through the desert crooning about his love for India – I was inspired. It was the first song whose lyrics I wrote in the back-pages of a notebook (and later got thrashed for!)

India turned 75 this year, and there is a lot to look back upon and celebrate. Our greatest achievement (and something we don't come together to celebrate enough) is the fact that we have remained a democracy. Nobody gave us a chance, but (except for a minor blip in 1975) we have remained the largest democracy of the world. A nation that is still passionate about politics. A nation that did not blindly ape the economic policies of other nations amidst the Cold War between capitalism and communism.

When I see people fight each other over political parties, I have an urge to remind them of the larger picture. To truly realise how well we have done, just have a look at our neighbours. One of them is a nation whose last achievement was reaching the finals of the 1999 World Cup. Another neighbour recently witnessed vloggers storming the President's Palace to take selfies in the swimming pool. Another neighbour prosecutes people for tweeting against the government. Amidst all this chaos, with all our issues and differences - we have been going steady.

At times, India does behave like a cranky 75-year-old too. We get irritated over useless topics - like boycotting films, or prosecuting standup comedians. Sometimes, we behave like irritated grandparents cribbing on a park bench. We are harsh towards each other, and have a spectacular ability to complain. And yet, there is wisdom too. We are a tolerant nation in many ways. Our laws do not follow a religious scripture, and keep getting moulded to adapt to evolving ideals. We have not let either religion or dynasties come in the way of our Constitution. Our economy has been doing reasonably well, and is slated to become one of the world's largest in the coming decades. So on the whole, our achievements far outweigh our problems.

India has the largest population of youth in the world. If you're a youngster reading this newspaper column (firstly, 50 points to Gryffindor for your fine taste), I hope you grow up with lesser cynicism than my generation did. I hope you do not engage in useless fights on social media like we do. And if you're someone who remembers the release of AR Rahman's Vande Mataram, I hope you stocked up on booze early. I hope you took a few sips of whiskey, called up old friends, and apologised for the unnecessary political debate you had on Facebook years ago. Happy 75, India!

A still from Kantara

Director and actor Rishab Shetty says the song and the film will showcase the fragrance of Keradi

'NAGA'S FOLK TUNES INSPIRED SINGARA SIRIYE TRACK IN KANTARA'

A SHARADHAA

Rishab Shetty's Kantara is set to hit the theatres on September 30, and the team released the first video song, Singara Siriye, on Independence Day. The track composed by Ajaneesh Loknath is a romantic number, featuring Rishab Shetty and Sapthami Gowda. The song is written by Pramod Pramod Maravanthe and sung by Vijay Prakash and Ananya Bhat.

Director Rishab, who has shot the entire film in and around his hometown of Keradi, says that this song is close to him for the memories it invokes of his native land. "The opening scene of the song features a veteran Yakshagana artiste Nagraj Panar Valtur and his children. Popularly known as Naga, he has been into Yakshagana and Kambala culture for ages, and is known by our family for two generations. He is noted for the Kundapura folk songs, often sung by women when they are into wind winnowing. I always wanted to capture this for posterity, and I got an opportunity in Kantara. I asked Naaga to sing a song around winnowing, and that tune was sent to Ajaneesh, which finally got blended in the song Singara Siriye," says Rishab, adding, "The shooting for the song has taken place in the roads of my hometown, and I have a lot of memories connected with every street. All of this is brought out in the love track."

Kantara, which deals with the human versus nature conflict, will be Rishab Shetty's 4th outing as a director, and his first collaboration with Hombale Films. The film features Sapthami Gowda, as Leela, who is employed as a forest guard. The cast also consists of Kishore, Achyuth Kumar, Pramod Shetty, and Raghu Ramanakoppa, who will be seen in important roles. Aravind Kashyap has handled the cinematography for the film.

Kiran Raj to headline an out-and-out commercial entertainer titled Sherr

CE FEATURES

The actor will be teaming up with director PraSiddh once again after Bharjari Gandu; Surekha to play the female lead

THE Bharjari Gandu actor-director combo of Kiran Raj and PraSiddh are set to reunite for a film titled Sherr. The film will be launched with a muhurath and filming will begin on August 22. Sharing the first look stills with CE, PraSiddh says that Sherr will be an out-and-out commercial entertainer, and the story, written by him, is influenced on true incidents that happened in the city. The Ratnamanjari director shares that there is also a romantic track with a twist.

Surekha, who has played a pivotal character in Bharjari Gandu, has been roped in to play the heroine in Sherr.

The technical team of Bharjari Gandu — composer Gummineni Vijay and DoP Kitty Kaushik — will also be returning for Sherr.

Pra Siddh's Sherr produced by Dr Sudershan Sunder Raj will also feature Tanisha Kuppanda, Yash Shetty, Bala Rajwadi and Sharath Lohitashwa in pivotal roles.

Kiran Raj, who is juggling between serials, films, and his social work, has a good lineup of projects. While Bharjari Gandu is planned for a September release, his other films like Baddis, Chicken Puliyogare, Chatushpatha, and Vikram Gowda, are at different stages of production.

Rachana Inder

'It took time for me to understand the character I play in Love 360'

CE FEATURES

Rachana Inder talks about her upcoming romantic drama directed by Shashank, which is her first solo lead film

RACHANA Inder, who made her debut in Krishna's Love Mocktail and followed with the sequel also got to share screen space with Rishab Shetty in Hari Kathe Alla Girikathe. The young talent, who has been part of multi-starrers finally gets to play the solo female lead in Shashank's Love 360. "When I entered the industry, it never occurred to me that I was not the solo heroine. All I thought was about the story, and the quality of projects. These two films and the yet-to-be-released Tribble Riding also helped me groom myself as an actor, and now I'm elated that director Shashank is introducing me as the solo female lead," says Rachana, who is paired opposite Praveen in the romantic drama, which is set to hit theatres on August 19.

Going by the rushes of the film, Rachana gets to play a unique character with mental health issues. "Initially, I didn't understand the role. However, workshops by Shashank, and by taking references from a few films helped me connect with the character. Otherwise, this role would have been complicated. I stayed in the mind of the character even when I wasn't shooting," she says. "Playing Girija in HKGK, and Jaanu in Love 360 has given me the confidence to speak a lot," says Rachana, who feels her role in this Shashank film is very special. "I'm glad to have got such a challenging role so early in my career," shares the actor, who says that Priyanka Chopra's role in Barfi was an inspiration to play her role in Love 360. With music by Arjun Janya, the cinematography of Love 360 is by Abhilash Kalathi. Apart from Love 360, Rachana is also part of Tribble Riding, in which she gets to star alongside Ganesh. "I'm also in talks with a couple of directors, and the projects will be announced once I sign the dotted line."

Project K to have a sequel?

CE FEATURES

IF the buzz in the tinsel town is anything to go by, Prabhas' upcoming sci-fi thriller Project K might have a sequel. "The makers are convinced that they cannot sum up Project K as one film and believe that the story has scope for a sequel. So they have decided to end the first part on a cliffhanger and are planning to have the second part as a fitting conclusion to its predecessor," informs a source close to the development.

Prabhas is excited about the idea of a sequel and has asked director Nag Ashwin to work on the second draft. "Nag Ashwin has already started working on this new draft and is confident of completing it before the completion of part one," the source adds.

Produced by C Ashwini Dutt under Vyjayanthi Movies, Project K also features Deepika Padukone and Amitabh Bachchan in prominent roles. Grapevine is that Prabhas and Amitabh will be seen as father and son in the film, while Deepika plays the latter's personal secretary. About 55 per cent of the film has already been completed and the makers are planning to wrap up the first part by January 2023 and release the film either on October 18, 2023, or January 2024 in Indian and foreign languages.

Saw horror franchise gets tenth installment

A new installment from the horror franchise Saw, will hit the big screens in 2023.

According to media reports, the 10th installment of Saw will release on October 27, 2023. It will be backed by Lionsgate and Twisted Pictures, with Kevin Greutert helming the film. Kevin has directed Saw VI and Saw: The Final Chapter and worked as editor for the first five installments.

Shreya, Lillete team up for short film Birth

CE FEATURES

SHREYA Dhanwanthary and Lillete Dubey is set to feature in Boundless Media's first international short film, Birth.

Birth is described as a 'satirical feminist thriller' of 25 minutes. In the film, Meera (Shreya), who is pregnant, visits a place headed by Mama Nithya (Lillete), where expecting mothers come to find joy in their pregnancy. However, Meera falls into the trap of a sinister cult that changes her life once and for all.

Directed by Shyam Sunder and produced by Natasha Malpani Oswal, Birth also stars Abeer Mehervish, Aanchal Chauhan, and Natasha Iyer in pivotal roles. It will premiere on Disney+ Hotstar on August 27.

Director Shyam Sunder said, "It brings us utmost joy to release Birth. The film has a unique vision. It focuses on the personal struggles of countless women who struggle to maintain their identity in the face of societal pressure through a satirical twist. Lilette and Shreya have done absolute justice to their versatile roles. We hope that the relatable theme of Birth appeals to the audience."
